THESE BOTTLES NOT RETURNABLE

Gravity proved too much for a load of soft drinks which fell from a truck about 2 p.m. Thursday at the corner of Harvey Avenue and Glenmore. The messy debris caused a traffic tie-up as well as some unprintable sentiments from the unidentified soft drink crew which had the unwanted job of cleaning-up the glassy havoc. (Courier photo)

Red China And Canada May Soon 'Recognize'

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — There is a growing feeling among UN observers that despite cautious statements from the Canadian government Canada and Communist China are close to announcing agreement on recognition.

The feeling came to the fore Thursday when some reporters gave credence to reports—denied by Canada—saying that either a agreement had been reached or shortly would be reached in the Stockholm talks on recognition.

The reports were reinforced by Canadian refusal to discount the possibility of an agreement before the annual China membership vote here around the end of November or the beginning of December.

Also supporting them are reports heard in some world capitals of progress in the talks. A report from London Thursday mentioned Peking is nearing agreement with Canada and other countries and that she may seek entry to the UN.

And there have been reports in the last few months of China desiring to come out of her self-imposed isolation.

NOTE TRUDEAU COMMENTS

In denying Thursday's reports, Canadian officials noted that Prime Minister Trudeau said this week that the Stockholm talks still are in progress. They said that the last Canada-Peking meeting in Stockholm was Aug. 1 and that "this kind of thing can't be settled over the telephone."

But some observers reply to that that Canada has been cautious in comments on the negotiations since they started 1½ years ago because it does not want to risk angering the Chinese.

Thus, they say, Canadians would be the last people to give any hints that the end is near. They add that it is conceivable that China will want an agreement before the China membership vote here.

LOVE LAUGHS AT JET AGE

PRESTWICK (AP) — A determined young accountant dashed 200 miles to this Scottish airport to plead with his Boston girl-friend aboard a transatlantic liner: "Please don't go home to America."

The Boston-bound plane was poised for takeoff Thursday night when Brian Pearl, 21, of Bolton, Lancashire, rushed up to the British Overseas Airways Corp. desk at Prestwick Airport and asked to speak with 23-year-old Maureen O'Leary.

All the world loves a lover, including airline officials, so the men at the desk permitted Brian to use the short-wave radio link with the jet and for the next five minutes the love-stricken accountant begged Maureen to stay.

At last Maureen relented and agreed to stay in Britain until the next Boston flight from Prestwick on Sunday.

Policeman Shot Dead

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — The fatal shooting of a policeman in his patrol car early today touched off a six-hour siege of a building that housed a Black Panther party headquarters.

One armed teen-ager was critically wounded as he fled the building, police said. Others who fled fired on police from nearby buildings.

One man was arrested and charged with the policeman's death.

Five policemen had been injured in an earlier disturbance at police headquarters when a crowd of blacks demanded release of a prisoner. Police arrested six persons in that incident.

Dead is Patrolman William Macdonald, 34, of Shaw, his partner, said a Negro man approached their car in a predominantly-Negro area and said, "Hey baby, I've got something for you," and fired a pistol at the officer's head.

Shaw's call for aid brought 30 police, who lobbed tear gas into the headquarters building before moving in to search the empty premises.

Officers identified the wounded youth as Troy Montgomery, 16. They said he came out of the building with a rifle in his hand and a bandoleer of ammunition over his shoulder.

Indians Defy Kokanee Ban

The Penticton Indian Band plans to defy the provincial fish and wildlife branch and take spawning kokanee in the Peachland area, a spokesman said Thursday.

Louise Gabriel said Indians have taken the spawning fish from Deep Creek for more than 1,000 years and won't stop now. She said this is the first year the band has told them not to.

Mrs. Gabriel said the Indians have never molested the fish or wasted anything. "We kill them and take them home for our winter supply. We never hurt them in 1,000 years."

The band's decision has been passed on to the Union of British Columbia Indian chiefs and a meeting of Okanagan Valley chiefs has been called.

"I called the fisheries man," said Mrs. Gabriel, "and the only reason he gave me that we couldn't take kokanee was that 'you can't touch fish while they're spawning.'"

The Indians usually take the fish by gaffing or with dipnets.

Earlier this week, Sandy MacDonald, regional fisheries biologist, said: "Anyone molesting, blocking the passage upstream, gaffing or in any other way disturbing the fish is liable to prosecution under the fisheries act."

There was no word on when the Indians plan to start fishing.

GM Strike Snowballs

DETROIT (AP) — The effects of the strike by the United Auto Workers against General Motors Corp. snowballed as the work stoppage entered its fourth day today.

Michigan, home of about half of the 344,000 men on strike in the United States and Canada, was hardest hit. But other places were beginning to feel the pinch as well.

A General Motors spokesman reported that 3,151 more UAW members at nine of 27 plants which were exempted from strike action by the union were laid off at the end of the second shift Thursday. This brought to 11,998 the number of workers laid off by GM since the start of the strike, almost 16 per cent of the work force at the exempted plants.

The 27 plants were exempted because they manufacture parts vital to other auto-makers. However, since GM is its own parts' best customer, production schedules at those plants have been reduced.

In Oshawa, Ont., home of GM's Canadian headquarters, officials reported 50 new welfare applications Thursday. GM employs 10,600 hourly rated workers in the city, half of Oshawa's industrial work force.

IWA Deadline Draws Nearer

VANCOUVER (CP) — Talks aimed at settling the southern interior forest industry dispute continued here today, with time running out.

Provincial mediator Clive McKee was appointed by Labor Minister Leslie Peterson on Sept. 9 in a bid to avert a threatened strike, and his 10-day term expires Saturday.

The dispute involves 4,500 members of the International Woodworkers of America and 40 forest industry companies.

Fore! Said Pilot As Mini-Sub Fell

VIRGINIA BEACH, Va. (AP) — A mini-submarine broke loose from a sling beneath a helicopter and plummeted on to a golf course Tuesday. No one was injured but the sub, valued at $75,000 was a total loss.

HEART TROUBLE

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Aviation Administration has ruled a heart transplant patient is not eligible for a pilot's licence. "Our medical office has never been requested to issue a certificate to such a person, but if such a request were made it would necessarily be denied," the FAA said in an informal ruling Thursday.

U.S. Sends Fleet As Crisis Grows In Middle East

WASHINGTON (CP) — The defence department ordered additional ships and planes moved into the Mediterranean today to beef up United States forces standing by for the possible evacuation of Americans from strife-torn Jordan.

Department spokesman Jerry W. Friedheim announced that "certain precautionary steps" involving elements of the 6th Fleet in the Mediterranean, the Atlantic Fleet and the positioning of additional U.S. Air Force transport planes were being taken should they be needed for evacuation.

Officials said that no military intervention was planned.

About 400 Americans now are in Jordan, including 38 persons still held hostage in the airline hijackings by Palestinian guerrillas two weeks ago.

U.S. officials indicated that ships of the Atlantic Fleet were steaming into the Eastern Mediterranean where some elements of the 6th Fleet have been standing by off the Lebanese and Israeli coasts since the hijackings.

At least one aircraft carrier from the Atlantic Fleet was believed to be part of the task force.

The 6th Fleet's two carriers, the Saratoga and the Independence, were reported by officials to be "in a position where they could support any evacuation should it become necessary."

In addition, the helicopter carrier Guam left port at Norfolk, Va., Thursday, a day ahead of schedule, with orders to steam for the Mediterranean. The Guam now is at Morehead City, N.C., picking up its normal complement of about 1,000 marines. The ship is expected to arrive in the Mediterranean in about a week.

HAS SUPPORT

Accompanying the Guam are several smaller support ships, believed to be three landing ships and the amphibious command ship Pocono.

Officials said the Guam and the other ships had been scheduled to participate in previously arranged NATO exercises usually held this time of year in the Mediterranean.

Nixon administration sources were quoted earlier in the day as saying no decision has been made on whether to take military action in the event King Hussein's regime in Jordan appears near collapse.

The flagship of the 6th Fleet, the missile cruiser Springfield, steamed from the harbor at Gaeta, Italy, Thursday, presumably heading for the eastern Mediterranean.

Officials said additional C-130 transport planes have been positioned in the area beefing up six C-130's sent to a NATO base at Incirlik, Turkey, two weeks ago. Some of these planes, each of which can carry about 95 persons and are equipped for handling airborne paratroopers, are at bases in Greece, sources said.

The 1,000 marines aboard the Guam will be joining a battalion of 1,500 marines now aboard ships of the 6th Fleet. The U.S. also has 1,500 army paratroopers stationed in West Germany from whom it can draw should they be needed.

In addition, the 82nd Airborne Division at Fort Bragg, N.M., is in a high state of readiness and can be moved quickly.

Defence Secretary Melvin R. Laird said Thursday the U.S. was prepared to evacuate Americans if it became necessary. He said C-130's would probably be flown into Jordan and that the United States would rely on the Jordanian Army to protect the airlift operation.

Defence department officials indicated that an evacuation operation in Jordan would not be limited to U.S. citizens.

"We normally don't turn down people in danger," they commented.

The officials added they expected Russian ships to shadow U.S. fleet movements closely. They said there were Soviet warships in the area which continually tracked American vessels.

Warplanes Pound At Red Troops Halting Cambodian Offensive

PHNOM PENH (AP) — Flight after flight of warplanes today pounded the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops who have blocked the Cambodian government's first offensive of the war some 50 miles north of Phnom Penh.

North Vietnamese troops attacked the Cambodian force along Highway 6 Thursday and killed four government soldiers.

Communist command forces were still operating to the rear of the government's forward line today. Three mortar rounds were reported fired on the Cambodians as more government reinforcements moved in.

The Communist command was also reported reinforcing and resupplying.

For the first time, the Cambodian command ordered field commanders not to let foreign correspondents cover the action today. No reason was given, but one officer in the town of Skoun said the move might be aimed at preventing foreign journalists from seeing strikes by American jets. No confirmation was available.

Cambodian engineers repaired the last of three bridges destroyed by Communist guerrillas between Skoun and the government forces' forward lines. Field commanders put strong forces around the newly mended bridges to prevent more sabotage.

Cadieux, The Soldier's Friend Says Farewell, Goes To Paris

OTTAWA (CP) — The government Thursday finally confirmed reports that the soldier's friend, Defence Minister Leo Cadieux, will replace Paul Beaulieu as Canadian ambassador to France.

After three years as a calming influence in the ticklish defence job, the 62-year-old practical politician leaves this weekend for Paris and a new diplomatic career.

Mr. Beaulieu, in uncertain health, takes on the less demanding job of ambassador to Portugal, replacing Michel Gauvin, 51, of Quebec City. Mr. Gauvin becomes ambassador to Greece, replacing H. F. Feaver, who is retiring.

The departure of Mr. Cadieux confirms half of the widely-reported story making the rounds that Mr. Cadieux's move would permit Donald Macdonald, president of the privy council, to move up to the defence portfolio.

It is still expected that Mr. Macdonald, who is also government House leader, will get the promotion. He is close to Prime Minister Trudeau and played a key role in the latter's successful bid to succeed Lester Pearson as Liberal leader and prime minister in 1968.

WILL MISS CADIEUX
The defence department, particularly the military personnel, are sure to miss Mr. Cadieux, who fought hard against budget and manpower cutbacks with mixed success.

Despite his efforts, the size of the Canadian NATO force in Europe is being halved. Meanwhile, total manpower is to be reduced to 82,000 by 1973 from last year's strength of 98,000.

The long suit of the stubby, grey-haired Cadieux has been his friendly affability and undoubted talent of turning aside criticism with a deft touch. He did not antagonize people.

LEO CADIEUX ... new career

Even without the trying military de-emphasis by the Trudeau government, he would have required these qualities after taking over the defence portfolio from Paul Hellyer.

The department was still vibrating uneasily from the Hellyer-forced unification program when the new man took over after 2½ years as associate defence minister. He became a steady influence.

His potential successor, Mr. Macdonald, is far younger and cruder, and more in the aggressive, do-it-now Hellyer tradition. He has proven a magnet for opposition criticism in Parliament, particularly for his determined pursuit of the Trudeau government's goal of exerting more control over parliamentary procedure.

U.S. Urges Strong Measures To Prevent Hijackings In Air

MONTREAL (CP) — The United States today urged member countries of the International Civil Aviation Organization to suspend services to and from any country that:

—Detains for international blackmail purposes the passengers and crew of any aircraft that has been unlawfully seized;

—Fails to extradite or prosecute persons responsible for acts of unlawful seizure involving the detention of passengers, crew or aircraft for international blackmail purposes.

John Volpe, United States transportation secretary, made the proposal to a special meeting of the 27-country executive council of ICAO, convened at the request of U.S. President Nixon who last week described the threat of air piracy as an "international menace."

Mr. Volpe said the U.S. proposal is designed to establish agreement on the general principle that concerted, multilateral sanctions are appropriate in certain circumstances.

It would probably require a request from an individual country to trigger the mechanism for international action, but the international aviation community then should implement the sanctions amounting to a boycott of air traffic to and from an offending country.

Mr. Volpe said the U.S. is prepared to submit a draft of these sanctions as a working paper to a ICAO legal committee meeting later this month in London.

Pistol Packer Gets 3 Months

FREEMONT, Grand Bahama (AP) — A tough anti-hijack security web has snared its first gun-toter at the Freeport International Airport.

British Overseas Airways Corp. initiated on Sept. 8 the searches now conducted on passengers of every airline. BOAC passengers also face frisking and search of their baggage at Miami.

The first pistol packer caught by the search program was a young American convicted Thursday of trying to board a Pan American jet the day before with a gun in his pocket.

Paul Stephen, 24, of Port Chester, N.Y., was sentenced to three months hard labor by Magistrate John Cronin, who said "carrying of weapons on to planes" will not be tolerated.

Second Time Around For U.S. War Widow

SAGUNA BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Mrs. John D. Lawson has become a Vietnam war widow for a second time. The defence department announced this week that marine 1st Lt. Lawson, 26, was killed in action in Vietnam. Mrs. Lawson's first husband died in Vietnam Jan. 29, 1967.

IN GOOD SHAPE

Hussein Hams As Amman Burns

LONDON (AP) — While civil war raged in Jordan, King Hussein talked over his amateur radio set Thursday night with fellow hams in Europe and North America.

"This is JY One-Hussein on the mike," was the call sign picked up by scores of ham operators.

They reported the king sounded confident and cheerful. He told Gordon Vine, a British ham: "Once in a while we get a bit of blasting here. We are putting our house in order and soon it will be organized."

Hussein has been a regular on the amateur wavelengths since March, when his British-born wife, Princess Mona, now in London, bought him a transmitter as a birthday present.

One conversation monitored here was with an American couple, Charles and Mary Ann Crider of Camp Hill, Pa. They have become friendly with the king via the airwaves.

The king told them: "Morale is high. I'm very well and in good shape.

"I'll send you a letter and a photograph. But I've been so very busy—it's a painful process putting our home in order."

The Criders have talked to Hussein 35 times in the last four months, and spent nine days in May in Jordan as the king's guests.

NAMES IN THE NEWS

Teamsters Not At All Happy

Teamsters president Ed Lawson says in Vancouver the British Columbia Mediation Commission's binding contract settlement appears to give the teamsters less in wages than cement companies had offered prior to a March strike-lockout. "On the face of it, it looks damned awful," Mr. Lawson said. "We are extremely disappointed." The dispute was the first in the private sector to be settled by the commission.

The struggle against environmental pollution will be won by the quiet voices of moderates, said Northern Development Minister Jean Chretien of Canada, and not by the strident voices of extremists. "We must seek concern, not confrontation," he told a meeting Thursday of the International Association of Fish and Game Conservation Commissioners in New York. "We will learn to evolve a scale of values in which we can measure the advantages and the disadvantages of development and growth."

A report released today by the University of British Columbia student society says only about half of the university's newer faculty members are Canadians, and about a quarter of the foreign teachers are Americans. The report, prepared by Tony Hodge, president of the Alma Mater Society, and Art Smolensky, past president of UBC's graduate student association, says that in the last five years, the university has been hiring only nine Canadians for every 11 non-Canadians.

Joseph Mattess, 25, of Stuart Lake, was acquitted Wednesday in Quesnel in his second trial on a non-capital murder charge in the shooting of Theodore Monk last October.

Talks continued in Vancouver today as negotiators attempted to end the seven-week strike by the Pulp and Paper Workers of Canada, which has closed eight pulp mills in British Columbia. Liberal leader Pat McGee, who brought the parties together, and has been acting as mediator, said Thursday night "very substantial progress" has been made, with only minor issues remaining to be resolved.

Rehabilitation Minister Phil Gagliardi of British Columbia Thursday criticized an immigration department decision to accept up to 240 Tibetan refugees into Canada. "At least," he said in an interview, "I feel there are places in Canada where these people may be far better off than in British Columbia. At the moment we still have some Hungarian refugees that we accepted who are unemployed and on welfare. I don't think it's fair to put this load on the B.C. taxpayer."

"It took me eight years and $6,000 to do this—but I've done it at last," Dave Harlowe of Los Angeles said Thursday as he showed off the skin of a 1,000-pound grizzly bear he shot. Mr. Harlowe dropped the bear with one shot while hunting on the northern edge of Tweedsmuir provincial park, about 45 miles south of Burns Lake.

Four Americans have come up with a scheme to coax Scotland's legendary Loch Ness monster out of hiding with strobe lights, sonar devices and sex stimulants. "We're going to use attractants," said Robert Rines, one of the four, in a telephone interview prior to his departure from Belmont, Mass., for Scotland Thursday night. "We're going after all the known senses the creature may have—sex, smell, taste, sound."

Dune buggies should be required to pass a safety inspection and their road-worthiness should be investigated by the Ontario Traffic Conference, a coroner's jury recommended Thursday in Toronto. The jury was investigating the death of Kurt Hans Schemp, 27, of Toronto, who died after he was thrown from his dune buggy when it flipped over on Highway 401 July 28.

Merrill C. Robinson, who was blinded in battle at Vimy Ridge in 1917 and spent most of the rest of his life helping the blind, died Thursday in Vancouver. He was 72. Mr. Robinson, the youngest sergeant-major in the Canadian army when an exploding German shell destroyed his sight at 18, became western superintendent of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind in 1929 after practising as a physiotherapist for a number of years at Victoria.

A third-year honors history student at the University of Winnipeg will be part of an expedition to salvage the ill-fated luxury liner Titanic. Laura Nield, 19, will act as a recorder of events and procedures during the salvage operation being undertaken by a team headed by Douglas Woolley of Baldoon, England.

A police court judge in Chatham, N.Y., Thursday agreed to drop a petty larceny charge against entertainer Harry Belafonte, who allegedly took $8 worth of groceries from a supermarket without paying.

The Alberta government likely will decide whether to reinstate suspended film censor Jack Day within the next week, lawyer John Gotski said Thursday in Edmonton.

He had had three drinks, usually his limit, but he felt hardly any effect. He had three more and still didn't feel anything. So a Hamilton, Ont., man snatched up his six swizzle sticks and went to the police to complain that the tavern was doctoring his drinks. He went to the police and asked for a breath analysis test to see whether his suspicions were correct, and was told he couldn't have one because he hadn't done anything wrong. He then decided to make a complaint to the Liquor Control Board of Ontario, which would investigate the matter. Constable R. N. Taylor of the traffic department said there isn't time for the police to give a test to anyone who just walks in and asks for one.

PRINCE GEORGE (CP) — Leo Credger spent part of his 20th birthday in court Thursday, charged with escaping custody at the Prince George Regional Correctional Centre. He had been serving two concurrent 18-month sentences for possession of stolen property.

Doctor Tells Coast Court About Abortion 'Nightmare'

VANCOUVER (CP) — A Vancouver doctor told in a hushed courtroom Thursday of a "nightmarish" three years during which he performed "hundreds" of abortion operations, earning income of $300,000 in one year and driving himself to "the point of exhaustion" to meet the demand.

Dr. Robert Makaroff, 48, had entered pleas of guilty in an early court appearance to three charges of attempting to procure abortions. The charges were laid after a policewoman posed as a prospective patient. Rev. Jack Kent, a Unitarian Church minister, who said he sent three women to Dr. Makaroff for abortions, and other witnesses made submissions for light sentence.

Dr. Makaroff, reading from a prepared statement, said his involvement with abortion began when he established his general practice near the University of British Columbia. "Perhaps as a result of my general convictions and my relocation in a university area, a growing general practice began to attract an ever greater stream of desperate young people with unwanted pregnancies," he said.

At that time, "like most doctors, I did not do abortions." That changed three years ago after he had watched "a number of girls who took the usual back-street route" to abortion. Many of them had "physically and mentally traumatic experiences."

"Finally, I had a patient whose case aroused my sense of frustration and of pride and duty as a physician, and led me to break the law—a law that at that time permitted few legal abortions."

He said he had no idea of the underground demand for abortion. "But after the first case, word got around quickly and within a year I was so swamped with women pleading for abortions that I could not adequately cope."

He began to restrict his practice to abortion.

Under questioning, he said his income last year was $300,000. But he said he owes the federal government $25,000 and is expected to pay income taxes of about 75 or 80 per cent.

"Incredible as it may seem, I do not have assets that if liquidated under present circumstances would leave me, my wife very much."

Dr. Makaroff's wife is a psychiatrist. They have four teenage daughters.

SET FEE HIGH

He said his fee for an abortion operation was $500, set at that level as a deterrent to try and ease "a situation which at times was nothing short of nightmarish."

But he said that many times he charged women much less than $500, or nothing at all, for the operation.

Gulf Oil Backs Move

TORONTO (CP) — A spokesman for Gulf Oil Canada Ltd. said Thursday Gulf strongly approves of a decision by the Exchequer Court to uphold a cabinet order-in-council giving the National Energy Board the power to restrict imports of cheap gasoline into Ontario.

"This decision is of great importance not only to the oil producing provinces in Western Canada but to the health of the petroleum business in Ontario," Gulf Vice-President R. E. Harris said in a statement.

The energy board's power to restrict imports was disputed by Caloil Inc. of Montreal last month on the grounds that it was unconstitutional.

Mr. Harris said, however, Gulf is still concerned that there are no regulations preventing gasoline manufactured from imported oil in Quebec from moving across the Ottawa Valley energy line into Ontario.

"Such products will continue to undermine Canada's biggest gasoline market and reduce demand for western Canadian crude oil," he said.

Quarter Million Probable Price For Air Tower

Negotiations are progressing steadily and drawings are into their final stages of an office bay and control tower at Kelowna Airport, says airport manager Eric Davison.

Mr. Davison said representatives from the city would meet with officials of the federal treasury board and department of transport in Vancouver in about 10 days time.

He added approval on principle was given earlier, but final approval for the proposed $250,000 project must come from the treasury board.

MANY IMPROVEMENTS

If approved, the additions would include equipment rooms, telecommunications centre, an updated first aid station and tower and would be manned by air traffic controllers to handle increasing air traffic at the airport.

Tenders could be called later this year, pending approval by Ottawa, Mr. Davison said.

The airport has continuously been improved during the past few years.

The largest single improvement was the official opening of the new airport terminal in October, 1968.

City officials have been discussing with federal officials for some time other improvements, including the control tower, lengthening the runway from its present 5,350 feet to possible 8,000, and a paved taxiway.

Statistics bear the necessity for the improvements, showing a substantial increase in both passengers handled and aircraft movements.

Airport Manager NAC Leader

Eric Davison, manager of Kelowna Airport, has been named president of the International Northwest Aviation Council.

The council members are British Columbia, Alberta, Saskatchewan, Yukon Territory, Northwest Territories, Oregon, Washington State, Idaho, Montana, North Dakota, Wyoming and Colorado.

He was elected president of the group at its recent convention in Yellowstone, Mont., and will hold office for one year.

This is the first time the top office has gone to a centre which is not a major population area.

Purpose of the group is to further international relations between both Canada and the United States, particularly in the aviation and allied industries.

Kelowna's second achievement with the association will include the group's 1971 convention, when 200 representatives will converge on the city in September.

Mr. Davison will be assisted in his duties by Canadian vice-president Art Parry, Shell Canada Ltd., Vancouver, and the American vice-president, representative from the Oregon civil aviation authority.

Take New Look At Purpose Past-President Urges UBCM

PENTICTON — The Union of British Columbia Municipalities has been urged to more adequately serve its members—the cities, towns, villages and regional districts of the province.

Instead of the usual chief executive's stewardship report to the group's annual meeting, outgoing president Mayor Hugh Curtis of Saanich suggested it is time for the UBCM to take a new look at what it stands for and might hope to accomplish.

First move Mr. Curtis recommended is "a gradual expansion of the head office staff and its transfer from New Westminster to Victoria—the province's capital city."

The organization in its 67 years has not been able to totally realize its full strength as an active, informed, and effective force in the affairs of the province and its people, the mayor said.

While not denying the achievements recorded "by many dedicated men and women," he said, the UBCM has not fulfilled its full potential.

"I see its great strength as a clear, effective voice for local and regional government rather than as a spokesman against other levels of government," Mr. Curtis said.

It must speak out strongly when the provincial or federal authorities act other than in the best interests of local citizens, he said.

This duty requires planning, capability, and good communication, the president said.

Local government in 1970 is "infinitely more intricate than it was 10 or 15 years ago."

"Quite flatly," he added, "rank and file members of the legislature do not have a clear understanding of local and regional government responsibilities and objectives in this last part of the 20th century."

"It is startling to experience, at first hand, the rather profound lack of knowledge among a number of MLAs with respect to this other level of government."

"There are MLAs on both sides of the House who do not understand regional government—five years after it was established in their own legislature."

Perhaps the fault is ours, not theirs, Mr. Curtis said.

"We must communicate with the legislators who sit in Victoria each year and in large measure determine the course of local and regional government."

To do this, he suggested, the UBCM now needs an effective, intelligent voice in Victoria.

S. S. Alexander Funeral Rites

Funeral services and interment will be held in Boyle, Alta., for Sydney Spencer Alexander, 81, of 301 Casanova Road, who died Thursday.

He is survived by his wife, Margaret, two sons, Sydney and John, both of Boyle, and two grandchildren.

Mr. Alexander was a life member of the Royal Canadian Legion in Boyle and was an active member of the United Farmers of Alberta co-operative for a number of years.

The remains have been forwarded to Boyle for interment in the family plot.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Thursday at the Boyle Funeral Home, Boyle, Alta.

Air Protest Wins Support

A protest from B.C. Tree Fruits Ltd., about cessation of the morning flight from Kelowna won support from the chamber of commerce Thursday.

Directors unanimously approved a motion supporting objections listed in a letter to B.C. Air Lines from BCTF general manager Ian Greenwood.

Mr. Greenwood said he objected to the early morning flight being discontinued because it was convenient for city businessmen wishing to make quick trips to Vancouver.

Before the flight was deleted, residents could fly to Vancouver early in the morning and after a full day's business in the coast city, return that same day to Kelowna.

Support for the protest was the first official comment from the chamber executive on a scheduled meeting since the deletion of B.C. Air Lines was in charge of the arrangements.

Motive For Move Revealed At Social

For the 114 new teachers employed this year by School District 23 (Kelowna), Thursday night was a social event.

They renewed university acquaintances, made new friends, and met trustees and senior officials.

The event, staged at Kelowna Senior Secondary, started in a friendly vein when board chairman J. W. Maddock welcomed the new teachers to the school district and expressed the desire they would have an enjoyable and productive year in Kelowna.

Following his address, he introduced the trustees, who were all present except Mrs. Janet Harland, who left for a European vacation recently.

After the introduction of the trustees, secretary-treasurer Fred Macklin and superintendent F. J. Orme were introduced.

In a humorous vein, Mr. Macklin wished them luck in their job in Kelowna.

In a more serious vein, Mr. Orme told them they were the most important cog in the educational machinery.

A number of teachers were asked why they came to Kelowna, and three major reasons were climate, the lake and close proximity to skiing.

Others said it was mainly for a change of scenery.

One teacher, Mrs. Claire Waterman, who teaches Grade 4 at Glenmore, said she came to Kelowna "because my husband was transferred here."

Her husband is employed by Niagara Chemicals.

Another, Sharon Stockley, who teaches Grade 4 at Dorothea Walker, said her parents reside here and to cut down on expenses, she planned to live at home.

Mrs. Waterman noted rent for older apartments were reasonable, but found the costs of locally-grown produce "high."

W. R. Corbin came to the Central Okanagan because he was fascinated by the scenery and the nearby skiing facilities.

A native of Northern Ireland, Mr. Corbin was in Ireland when he received word he was to teach at Rutland Secondary.

Previously, he had taught at Campbell River between 1967 and 1968.

Fritz Hein, who taught last year in Rossland, said Kelowna's climate, skiing and the lake beckoned him to come.

One teacher, Linda Kemp, who teaches English and acts as a counsellor at Kelowna Secondary, said she wanted to get away from Vancouver.

"I was born and educated there and I just wanted a change," she said. During the summer months, she worked in Penitence to earn expenses for university.

Penelope Pollard said "impressed with the scenery" while another instructor, Elizabeth Shultz, said she couldn't say what made her apply to teach in Kelowna.

Possession Brings Fine

An 18-year-old Burnaby youth, William Lyons, charged with two counts of possession of narcotics, was fined $250 and placed on 18 months probation on a plea of guilty in provincial court today before Judge D. M. White.

The accused was ordered to refrain from use of drugs during the probationary period.

Two men, Roy Watson and Gordon Riley, of no fixed address, were each fined $200 on a plea of guilty on a charge of causing a disturbance in a public place while in a state of intoxication.

Bail was set at $1,000 cash and $1,000 surety on a charge of false pretences against Edward Tremblay of no fixed address. Trial was remanded to Oct. 6.

Consuming liquor in a public place resulted in a fine of $50 against Robert Crabbe of Kelowna, who pleaded guilty to the charge.

A charge of dangerous driving against Garry Traut of Kelowna, was remanded to Saturday. Remanded to Oct. 20 was Albert Anstett of Kelowna, who pleaded not guilty to a charge of wilful damage.

Emil Simmonds of Princeton, was remanded to Oct. 13 on a plea of not guilty to a charge of theft by persons requiring to account. Charged with false pretences, Russell Elliott of Kelowna, was sentenced to one day in jail and placed on 18 months probation. The accused was also ordered to keep the peace and seek psychiatric help.

'Air Pump' Cools City

Unsettled weather should continue over the Central Okanagan today and Saturday as low pressure system off the coast continues to pump cool, moist air over the province.

Skies should be sunny Saturday morning, clouding over with a few afternoon showers.

Thursday's high was 59, the overnight low 40, and 46 inches of precipitation recorded.

Low tonight and high Saturday should be 38 and 65.

FEAR 'MISINTERPRETATION'

Hostel Praise Balks Executive

A motion of commendation for Anglican Church volunteers who ran the summer youth hostel was defeated at the regular meeting of the Kelowna Chamber of Commerce executive Thursday.

Moved by E. D. MacLachlan the motion fell about of other directors who argued a commendation could be misinterpreted as an endorsement of hostels.

Mr. MacLachlan attended the last city council meeting as chamber representative and reported Kelowna aldermen had been told the volunteer hostel had saved the taxpayers money per-head on transients.

"Maybe the hostel encouraged transients to come here... maybe they would have gone right through," A. S. Walls, vice-president said.

Director T. S. Scaife, also opposed to the motion, said there was always a danger of misinterpretation on such matters.

"It's an extremely valid point, we're sticking our necks out if we try and speak for 600 members on something that is extremely controversial," Mr. Scaife said.

Mr. MacLachlan argued hostels had merit if properly managed and cited recent interviews with mayors of major cities who were in favor of the facilities.

DON'T UNDERSTAND

"I think a lot of people that are opposed to it don't understand and get their opinions by listening to Vancouver Mayor Tom Campbell," Mr. MacLachlan said.

The motion went down six-one with vice-presidents R. S. Alexander and Walls, directors J. G. S. Hirtle, B. M. Meikle, L. T. Salloom and Scaife against.

In other chamber business directors:

Heard a questionnaire will be sent out to chamber members next week asking opinions on a better business bureau. Mr. Meikle, who is putting out the questionnaire expressed the opinion the bureau should operate independent of the chamber or Downtown Businessmen's Association.

Approved a letter of congratulations be sent to CHCC in Kelowna and CHAN in Vancouver for bringing the second non-cable network to the area.

Received word the 1971 B.C. Chamber of Commerce convention to be held in Kelowna has been changed to June 6-8. Chamber manager W. J. Stevenson said some accommodation problems were encountered due to another convention in the city on those dates.

Approved tours in the near future of Homco Industries in the Westside Industrial Park and the pollution control plant.

Decided to urge the chamber membership to send in opinions on a Central Okanagan industrial commissioner to the chamber office of the offices of the Regional District of Central Okanagan. The chamber executive is preparing a brief on the commissioner for presentation to the regional district.

Program For Hunter Safety Being Considered By KDSC

The Kelowna and District Safety Council is thinking of beginning a safety program aimed specifically at hunters. At its regular monthly meeting Wednesday at the Colony, the council decided to stress safety while in the woods. These rules include such things as not carrying a loaded gun in a vehicle, not shooting from a vehicle, wearing proper safety gear in the woods and making sure one's weapon is unloaded before carrying the gun from place to place.

Greg Schlosser, 17, a Grade 12 Immaculate student, will report to the council at its next meeting of a recent youth safety conference in Winnipeg.

Council will ask the Regional District of Central Okanagan to appoint a representative to the board. Fred Alcock told the meeting many problems confronting the council are not just those of the city, but include the region. Chairman D. M. White will write a letter to W. C. Bennett, chairman of the regional board, to send a representative to the council.

Students unions, car clubs, Kelowna Teen Town, boys' club and scouts, the three Kelowna cadet corps and other youth-oriented organizations should become involved in a bicycle safety program with the safety council, it was suggested.

SEEN and HEARD

Kelowna Teen Town is taking an active role in the swimming pool walkathon Saturday. Students from most of the high schools of the area have challenged their teachers to walk in the event with the students. The walkathon begins at Kelowna Secondary with the route following a 20-mile course through South and East Kelowna before returning to Kelowna Secondary.

Traffic signals at the intersection of Highway 97 and Highway 33 are currently being installed by provincial public works crews. The site of several fatalities in the past, the intersection was described as a "bad corner" by a district engineer office spokesman.

A school bus travelling from the intersection of Highway 97 and Highway 33 to Richter Street and Harvey Avenue, was observed flashing a right hand turn indicator while in a left hand lane.

Summer isn't finished yet, according to Mrs. Elmer Ward Lakeshore Road, who reported six bathers this week at Gyro and Canamara beaches.

Delivering the mail can be an exhausting business. One local postman was observed resting in an open-doored mail storage receptacle on Water Street Thursday.

Mrs. John deMontreuil, Benvenuto Road, will leave Monday for Holland as part of a grave-visiting pilgrimage sponsored by an independent Dutch Committee and organized by the Royal Canadian Legion. She will visit the grave site of her brother, Pte. A. D. Marty who was a member of the Canadian Scottish Regiment. More than 6,300 Canadians are buried in some 135 cemeteries in Holland and Germany.

Visitors to Kelowna who missed Regatta 1970 might think the city is being a little premature advertising Regatta 1971. In at least a few places town signs and stickers are still up proclaiming Regatta Aug. 5-9. Until early this week some direction signs to Regatta headquarters were still in place.

Political support for the Pool Loop Walkathon Saturday arrived in Kelowna today with telegrams from Premier W. A. C. Bennett and Okanagan-Boundary MP Bruce Howard. Both of the area's leading politicians wish walkers every success and endorsed the indoor swimming pool project. Mr. Howard expressed regret he could not participate in the event.

Red Cross Meets Soon

Participation in the Central Okanagan United Appeal campaign and co-ordination of blood donor clinics in the area will be among topics discussed Oct. 1 when the Kelowna and District branch of the Canadian Red Cross Society meets in the city.

Sessions will be held in the health unit annex, 390 Queensway, beginning at 2:30 p.m.

Colin Evans, assistant commissioner of the British Columbia-Yukon division, Vancouver, will participate in a number of functions in the area Sept. 30 and Oct. 1, marking the official United Appeal kickoff.

Vehicle Stolen

Local RCMP are investigating the theft of a vehicle owned by W. D. MacIvor of KLO Road, stolen in front of Bennett's Stores (Kelowna) Ltd., at 2 p.m., Thursday. Also under investigation is a breaking and entering incident at Zack's Furniture Shop, 1081 Glenmore St., at 11:55 p.m., Thursday. Thieves also stole a small amount of money from a private dwelling at 834 Glenmore Drive today at 6 a.m.

General Meet Set Sept. 30

A Kelowna Chamber of Commerce general meeting is still tentatively scheduled for Sept. 30.

A major reason for the meeting will be presentation of a notice of motion involving chamber constitutional changes.

The changes, under study by a committee of past-presidents, would institute two-year terms for directors who would be elected on "staggered" terms.

At a meeting of the chamber executive Thursday directors T. S. Scaife urged past-president and committee chairman J. G. S. Hirtle to go further with the changes.

"With this we could elect a president who has no previous experience on a chamber of commerce," Mr. Scaife said.

"We must have safeguards against this," Mr. Scaife suggested Mr. Hirtle's committee contact each director independently for opinions on the changes before completing the motion.

The motion must be presented to one general meeting then voted on at a second.

Police Attend Two Collisions

About $800 in damages were incurred in a mishap involving vehicles driven by J. D. McIntosh and Walter Schwartz of Kelowna.

There were no injuries in the accident at 9:30 p.m. Thursday at Pandosy Street and Queensway.

A two-car collision at Fisher and Leader Roads resulted in $250 damages but no injuries to drivers Robert Lehad and Honrie Meulman, both of Kelowna. The mishap occurred at 8 a.m. Thursday.

Welcomed Sound And Sight If You're Lost

When is the ear-splitting honk of a giant air horn the most beautiful music in the world?

When you've been lost in the woods for two days and that honk is guiding you back to the base camp of the dedicated Kelowna and district search and rescue unit.

Being lost is terrifying, but victims can ease their suffering a little with the realization a force drawing on 200 efficient volunteers, border detectors and pilots is looking for them.

Organized at the request of city council in 1965, the search and rescue unit is today an example to many other communities. As co-ordinator deputy chief Jack Roberts handles many letters from other areas seeking information on the Kelowna unit.

What makes the unit unique is the ability to search in all elements.

"The largest group is the 'hush section', which footlogs through the forest in search of missing hunters, campers or hikers. Composed of 70 experienced woodsmen, the hush section splits into teams of 11—each with a captain.

The air section is handled by Cariboo Air Charters.

Deputy chief Roberts estimates at most times the water section can get about 15 boats to assist RCMP vessels in an Okanagan Lake search. Divers supplement the boats.

"We've had all the sections since 1965, but before that the search and rescue club would handle people lost in the woods and the yacht club people lost at sea," Mr. Roberts said.

Bringing small groups at last eliminates the possibility of muddling any tracks or signs which could assist in a hasty find.

The operation has served search and rescue well on 30 searches since inception. Many were "false alarms," but many were genuinely lost people.

ONE LOST

The system has failed only once in the Kelowna district. In November 1964, when search and rescue was just forming, a hunter went missing on Little White Mountain. He has never been found.

One of the largest searches ever organized locally saw 457 men, seven aircraft, two helicopters, horses, radars and police dogs comb the mountain area. Only after two weeks did the RCMP reluctantly call off the search.

Most times, however, the hunts are successful and lost people either find the camp, due to the air horn, which can be heard for nine miles, or are discovered by searchers.

Winter is a problem season for search and rescue involving more calls and deadlier weather.

A major problem for searchers is the careless woodman who fails to return on schedule.

Recently a search and rescue team went 150 miles from Kelowna into the Haystack Lake area in search of two "missing" fishermen, only to discover the men had extended their trips because of good fishing.

"Their families didn't know that and called us," Mr. Roberts says, "I just wish there was some way these people could be made to pay for the time and trouble they cause by carelessness."

Drivers Are Doing Better On City, District Roads

Canadians are still managing to kill themselves on the nation's highways with wild abandon.

In spite of police crackdowns, pleas from safety groups and the "green box" breathalyzer deterrent, Canadian drivers are still doing themselves in at a fairly good clip.

Figures given to the Canada Safety Council by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics show that while the number of road deaths and fatal accidents dropped slightly, injuries, property damage and total accidents all increased.

The drop in fatal accidents was 1.4 per cent through the first three months of this year and the number of people killed in fatal accidents was down 6 per cent.

But there were 2.6 per cent more injuries and 1.6 per cent more mishaps involving property damage, while total accidents increased 2.1 per cent.

Traffic deaths were down in six provinces, none of them west of Saskatchewan. In B.C. they were up to 96, from 79 for the first three months of 1969. For the first six months of 1970 they were up 15 per cent, to 243 from 205.

Five provinces had fewer traffic accident injuries, this time none west of Ontario. Traffic injuries in this province for January, February and March were up to 4,516 from 3,624 last year.

There weren't as many fatal accidents in B.C. this year, only 60, compared with 64 last year, but more people died, 96, against 79.

The number of accidents involving property damage dropped slightly in B.C., 12,031, compared with 12,766. The total number of accidents was also down a bit; 15,146, compared with 15,386 last year.

B.C. was one of only four provinces to show a drop in property damage accidents and one of four down in total road mishaps. Only three provinces, Ontario, New Brunswick and Newfoundland dropped in all categories of accidents.

In the Kelowna RCMP detachment area, which runs from near the south end of Wood Lake to part way down the Trepanier Hill near Peachland, drivers appear to be doing a bit better than the national average, so far this year.

Statistics are not available for total number of accidents or injuries, but there have been only three road deaths so far this year. To this date last year there were eight killed on Central Okanagan highways.

Road deaths play no favorites. The ages of those killed this year range from two to 34 and include a pedestrian, a single-car accident and a front end loader mishap.

Central Okanagan residents have been killing themselves on area roads at a record clip the past few years. From 1962 to 1967 the annual death toll ranged from five to eight. But in 1968 it jumped to 16 and last year's 14 wasn't much better.

There were 1,016 accidents investigated by Kelowna Mounties last year, the first time ever the total exceeded 1,000. There were 297 people hurt in these accidents.

What are the biggest causes? Mostly it's not paying enough attention to what you're doing—the police call it careless driving. Following closely are dangerous driving, drinking and driving and speeding.

You get tired of being told to check yourself up on your driving habits and you really don't get much out of a bunch of statistics.

But you'll get even less if you become one.

Every time we see national statistics on highway deaths we are shocked. It reminds us of the radio station in the United States that plays Christmas music before the July 4 and Labor Day holidays—for the people who won't be around to hear it at Christmas time.

Who will be next in this area—you?

Hussein Shows Strength

(Calgary Herald)

King Hussein of Jordan now appears to be doing what he should have done a long time ago. He is asserting his sovereignty. He is making a determined bid to end conditions which are rapidly approaching the character of an Arab civil war.

The king has authorized his army chief of staff, Major-Gen. Mashour Haditha, to assume full powers in order to quell the continuing unrest. The general's first step has been to order an immediate cease-fire between Palestinian Arab guerrillas and Jordanian troops.

The immediate purpose of this move is to try and end further bloodshed in the kingdom. But Hussein must surely be aware that there can be no lasting peace as long as his country is used as a sanctuary for Palestinian guerrillas. Hussein has been the most moderate of the Arab leaders. But in some aspects, this moderation also has represented weakness. As a result, the guerrillas have been allowed to use Jordan as a base for aggressive terrorist attacks against Israel.

The chips now appear to be down. The continued condoning of the guerrilla presence has also given heart to extreme Jordanian radicals obsessed with the need to pursue a holy war against Israel. The result has been three years of chronic instability and internal violence.

There must be an end to it, of course. Last week, The Financial Times of London stated in an editorial comment that "the one thing which remains clear is that one day—and he alone knows when—Hussein will have to assert his sovereignty and accept the enormous risks such a decision must imply."

That day may have come. Not only Hussein's throne, but the very future of Jordan, is at stake. Radical elements in the kingdom would like to depose him and take control. But if they did, there would be an immediate retaliation from Israel—a retaliation which might result in Jordan's complete disappearance from the map.

The Jordanian boundaries have already shrunk as a result of the 1967 war. And now, right-wing government elements in Israel are advocating that Israel invade Jordan, "liquidate" the kingdom and establish order.

Hussein is reacting to these threats, both internal and external. The question, however, is whether he is acting with requisite boldness.

NEWS ANALYSIS

Democrats Study Victory Route

By PHILIP DEANE
Foreign Affairs Analyst

A fascinating book, about to be published shortly, co-authored by America's greatest expert on how elections are won or lost, gives useful tips to the Democrats in the U.S. on how they can hold on to their threatened Congressional majorities and how they can unseat Richard Nixon in 1972. This book is called The Real Majority by Richard C. Scammon—the election expert—and Ben J. Wattenberg. Here are their prescriptions for a victory by the Democrats in 1972 and in this year's elections.

The Democrats cannot nominate a candidate who is known as anti-black, to run against Richard Nixon. No one will believe that the Democrats are anti-black—they are, after all, the party of Stevenson, Kennedy and Humphrey. So the Democrats must insistently split the "social issue" from the "race issue."

The social issue would exist even if every black vanished from the U.S. tomorrow, say Scammon and Wattenberg. Campus disruption, drugs, pornography, opposition to the Vietnam war are not caused by the blacks. There is a rising crime rate among blacks, to be sure, but the crime rate among whites is also rising. One can find poverty and urban decay in neighborhoods that are neither black nor threatened by a black invasion—middle-class whites are as opposed to lower-class white neighbors as they are to black neighbors.

According to Scammon and Wattenberg, the Democrats should use the following rhetoric:

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

LEARNING AREA?

Sir: I would like to commend the school board on the impressive list of new teachers—all 114. I believe the staff now totals 250 up from 200 last year.

There seems to be a high turnover of teachers from last year. The list that was published in the Courier recently reads like the graduation class of UBC or University of Victoria.

One thing that was very obvious to me was the great lack of experienced teachers hired. I quite agree the beginning teacher has to have the opportunity of acquiring experience but surely for such a choice living area as the Okanagan Valley there are many experienced teachers applying and there should have been a balance somewhere.

Also to say the teacher is from UBC or U of V really isn't much as they are the two main training centres of B.C. for teachers.

It neglected to say if all these teachers are out on the five-year program that we hear so much about or are many of these people on the two or three-year course?

Certainly we want well-educated people forming the future generations but are our children being used as the learning area for a great number of new teachers?

In teaching, education is most necessary but experience is quite often more important for the students well-being.

I wonder how many very experienced teachers are unemployed this school term because the one quality they have—experience—makes them economically unattractive to the school board?

With the deplorable conditions of shifts or alternate days for students, I feel experienced teachers would be more adept at making the necessary adjustments for the betterment of our boys and girls. We taxpaying parents are concerned.

PARK NEEDED

Sir: A recent letter to your paper pointed out the need to develop another park in the Glenmore area.

As a resident of that area I wish to point out that many of the children now play in the streets because the barren space known as Hartweg (non) Park has nothing to offer them, not even a softball backstop. While traffic is light on many streets there is the unnecessary increased risk of accidents because of the lack of play facilities.

Development of this park is long overdue. It is realized of course that our city council has to budget its funds carefully. But by setting priorities on the use of our money, council could eliminate less worthy projects and proceed with those projects that benefit the citizens most.

Yours truly

Greater Canadian Control May Bear High Price Tag

By FRANK FLAHERTY

OTTAWA — Any way you look at it the project of promoting greater Canadian control over businesses operating in this country carries a price tag.

How big the tag depends on how fast the idea is pushed and how wise the decisions taken about it by governments and business executives turn out to be.

The price may be paid in higher taxes, lower wages, higher prices, slower growth, lower profits and hence less revenue to the treasury from corporation and income taxes.

Ian Wahn, Liberal member for Toronto-St. Pauls, headed a common committee which studied the question and recently made its report. It said there should be at least 50 per cent share in all companies operating in Canada. The committee didn't suggest that was either possible or desirable in any quick space of time, but that, given incentives, the goal could be approached over a period of years.

Wahn has since said the committee didn't contemplate any "massive buy-back" on the short run. He himself favors a definite federal policy on foreign ownership which would aim at improving the performance of Canadian-owned companies rather than protecting them against foreign competition.

Wahn's committee, however, did recommend action which would involve a considerable expansion of the federal government's already large establishment concerned with the operations of private business. It calls for the setting up of a new agency—The Canadian Ownership and Control Bureau.

This alone would require the employment of a considerable staff of high-priced professional people, all of whom would be paid out of public funds. It would administer a law banning any take-over of an existing Canadian business by a foreign corporation without approval. It would develop a clear statement of policy to be followed in the issue of permits for take-overs.

The committee called for a review of all income tax provisions to make sure they don't favor foreign-owned companies and consideration of income tax incentives for companies complying with the guidelines including the one calling for 51 per cent Canadian participation.

The committee seems to have assumed that if 51 per cent of the shares of a company are owned by Canadians those Canadians will have a decisive share in corporate decisions. This, of course, doesn't follow. The Canadian-owned shares might be widely distributed among employers and the general public. The 49 per cent foreign-owned shares, could all be held by one individual or a parent company in which case they would be voted by that company's management.

Wahn's committee also called for appropriate income tax incentives to companies complying with the 51 per cent guideline. This, if it means anything, suggests lower taxes on 51 per cent Canadian-owned companies than on 50 per cent or less. Nothing is said about whether owners of the 51 per cent are active and informed shareholders able to exercise their voting power in an informed way.

The committee's scheme, if put in effect, could see the federal government's agencies at cross-purposes with other public supported bodies.

Many municipalities have industrial development agencies. Many boards of trade devote some of their efforts and resources to attracting new industries. Few of them worry about who owns the shares and who will collect the dividends, if any when they are paid. They are simply concerned with more jobs in their communities, bigger payrolls and more people to pay taxes for expanding municipal services.

To say that governmental intervention aimed at influencing business opportunities in Canada is wrong, of course, would fly in the face of all past experience. The Canadian economy has been largely built on government intervention—the construction of the railways by means of public money; the development of manufacturing by means of tariffs.

These things carried a price tag in terms of taxes and higher cost goods and services. Canadianization of ownership of corporate business in years ahead will also carry its price tag in terms of higher taxes to finance a bigger governmental bureaucracy and, possibly, a somewhat slower rate of growth.

Bourassa Has Shown New Style In Presenting Quebec's Demands

OTTAWA (CP) — The substance of Quebec Premier Robert Bourassa's position on constitutional reform differs little from that of his predecessors, but the 37-year-old economist has shown a new style in putting forward his province's demands.

Mr. Bourassa came to his first constitutional conference seeking as much and in some areas more than the late Daniel Johnson and Jean-Jacques Bertrand.

But the Quebec Liberal leader's tone was more conciliatory than that of his Union Nationale predecessors, reflecting his often-stated intention of getting to the root of the issues facing Quebec instead of engaging in showmanship and quarrels.

Prime Minister Trudeau, annoyed often by the approach of Quebec's former Union Nationale government to constitutional reform, expressed satisfaction with the 27-page outline of Mr. Bourassa's position presented Monday, the opening day of the conference.

Mr. Trudeau described the statement as "a clear commitment for federalism" and said he was encouraged because "there's no more hedging."

HE'S AGGRESSIVE

In substance, however, Mr. Bourassa was as aggressive as Mr. Johnson and Mr. Bertrand. He said Quebec wants "a flexible federalism which will express our true freedom as Quebecers within the structures of a dynamic participation in the great plans involving Canada as a whole."

He rejected Quebec independence as a workable option, but said the Canadian federal system must show "strict respect for the special characteristics of our culture and the aspirations of the Quebec community."

In other words, Quebec is not a province like the others, a phrase often used by the Union Nationale government.

Mr. Bourassa sought Quebec participation in "the process of decisions of the central government which have a significant impact on the economic, social and cultural development of Quebec."

He said he expected "enough political maturity" on the part of the federal government and the other provinces "to appreciate what the stakes are in this federal challenge we put before our fellow-citizens on the occasion of the April 29 election."

He supported his appeal with a warning that Quebec "will not tolerate any longer either the excessive slowness of the revision procedure of our constitution, or the lingering chaos which stems from it."

It remains to be seen whether Mr. Bourassa's words will be heeded. Although he emerged from the conference's closing session Tuesday saying the Quebec government had agreed to speed up the process of constitutional reform, other participants seemed less enthusiastic.

A statement issued by the conference at its close Tuesday said that while it is important to continue and complete the rewriting of the constitution as quickly as possible, "it was nevertheless recognized that it would be unrealistic to expect an early completion of the task."

Some other premiers, especially John Roberts of Ontario, feel the priority now is the working out of a formula for amending the constitution without having to appeal to the British Parliament.

Mr. Bourassa said Tuesday Quebec is ready to discuss "the possibility of an amending formula" but feels the matter is "very complex and very difficult."

He wants the constitutional conference to get on with the revision process as its first order of business.

He was pleased that the conference had accepted a proposal by Saskatchewan Premier Ross Thatcher that bilateral meetings be held between Ottawa and Quebec to negotiate a new constitution.

The conference went beyond Mr. Thatcher's original proposal in approving meetings of two or more of the 11 governments to discuss constitutional reform.

Mr. Bourassa said his government will carry on "talks, meetings, discussions and consultations" with the other governments at the official level before the next constitutional conference in February.

However, other premiers, notably Mr. Thatcher, feel that full-scale federal-provincial conferences should discuss economic problems before taking up constitutional reform.

The Quebec premier said the conference has shown him that his province is "less isolated than I thought" in demanding more constitutional powers and a larger role in federal government decision-making.

A Teaching Method In Bulgaria Could 'Catapult' Undereducated

TORONTO (CP) — Two

women who have written a book called Psychic Discoveries Behind the Iron Curtain say they have discovered a teaching method in Bulgaria that "could catapult the undereducated ahead in a year instead of a decade."

The women, Sheila Ostlander and Lynn Schroeder, say the method was developed by Dr. Georgi Lozanov, director of the Institute of Suggestology and Parapsychology in Sofia, Bulgaria.

The women are currently engaged in translating Dr. Lozanov's system into English.

Mrs. Ostlander, a native of Winnipeg, and Miss Schroeder, a former editor of Mademoiselle magazine, spent several years behind the Iron Curtain doing research for their book which now is in its fourth printing.

Mrs. Ostlander says that at the Bulgarian Institute, teachers show hundreds of persons from all levels of society how to learn entire two-year courses in as few as 20 days.

Tests made years later show that the students have retained the material learned, she adds.

The Lozanov technique, as they describe the teaching system, uses a mind-to-mind contact between pupil and teacher.

Dr. Lozanov, who is a psychiatrist and psychologist, describes the teaching program as acquiring an actual sixth sense.

Former Kelowna Man Marries Well-Known Williams Lake Girl

Late summer flowers and white candles on the altar formed the autumn setting for the double ring ceremony, conducted by Rev. Canon H. R. Hunt, recently in St. Peter's Anglican Church, Williams Lake, uniting in marriage Elaine Jean, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. D. Clive Stange, of Williams Lake, and Douglas Russell, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell E. Layman, Kelowna.

Prior to the ceremony, the organist, Rev. Russell Vickers, minister of the Williams Lake United Church, rendered traditional wedding music and during the signing of the register he accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Leonard Simon in "Love's Offering".

Given in marriage by her father, the radiant bride was gowned in a classic sheath of Ligoda crepe with a small stand-up collar, the long sleeves gathered into snug cuffs were enhanced in lace of Venice, which was also featured on the bodice and hemline of the skirt. A floor length sleeveless coat with detachable hood swept into a cathedral train at back. Hand edged lace of Venice, on the hood framed her face. Her only adornment was her grandmother's cameo brooch and she carried a cascade bouquet of white feathered carnations offset with blue ribbon.

Maid-of-honor, Christine Cowley of Williams Lake, and bridesmaids, Sherilee Ward, the bride's cousin of Burnaby and Raelene Lamb, the groom's cousin of Vernon and Ward Stange, the bride's brother of Williams Lake, wore formal suits.

They carried colonial bouquets of white mums and stephanotis and wore pendants of carved ivory, gifts of the bride.

Stacey Ward of Burnaby, the bride's cousin, as flower girl wore white penou d'elegance, fashioned on identical lines to the senior attendants and carried a basket of pink carnations.

The groom, his best man, Bill Beggs, of Kamloops and the ushers, Tom Lamb, the groom's cousin of Vernon and Ward Stange, the bride's brother of Williams Lake, wore formal suits.

For the reception the bride's mother received wearing a mint green silk shantung A-line dress, featuring a rolled neckline and sheer long sleeves ending in a snug cuff. A sleeveless coat of matching shantung completed her outfit.

The groom's mother assisted wearing a marine blue model coat and dress. The A-line dress of silk Grand Seigneur was topped with a fitting collar of Guipure lace, featuring a collar of the dress silk. Shoes, gloves and handbag entone and her corsage was of tulip roses.

The toast to the bride was proposed by Dr. J. B. Ringwood of Williams Lake and responded to by the groom. The toast to the bridesmaids was proposed by the best man, who also read telegrams from Mr. and Mrs. C. St. Pierre (MP) Ottawa, Mrs. Margaret "Ma" Murray of Lilloet, also from Toronto, Transcona, Man., Regina, Prince Albert and Ardath, Sask., New Westminster and Vancouver.

SPECIAL SONG
The touching rendition of "More", sung by a special friend of the bride's, Diana Peterson, was the cue for the wedding dance which was led by the bride and groom. MC for the evening was Owen Kerley, Linda Kerley in charge of guest book.

Changing into a wool plaid suit of pink, grey and white, the bride was ready for the honeymoon trip to Vancouver and Fourth Estate, Chimney Lake.

The young couple will reside at No. 306, Stagecoach Apartments, Williams Lake.

Out-of-town guests were: Mrs. Nelson Smith and Mrs. Wesley Fierheller, Transcona, Man.; Mr. and Mrs. Alan Fowler, Winnipeg, Man.; Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Lamb, and Barry Vernon; Mr. and Mrs. Frank O. Smith, the groom's grandparents of Kelowna; Mr. and Mrs. Brian Ward and son; Mrs. Evelyn Ward, the bride's grandmother and Douglas Drummond, Burnaby; Mr. and Mrs. Jack McMillan, Valmont; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Mobbs, Kamloops; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Shaw, 150 Mile House.

ANN LANDERS

Super Brainy Whiz Kid Lost Count Somewhere

Dear Ann Landers: I have a friend who knows everything. Yesterday she announced at our card club that any illness can be cured by eating certain foods. She went into great details about "earth remedies" which have baffled medical science for centuries. Her grandmother, she said, handed down many such cures. Among the examples, she cited an aunt who was bedridden with crippling arthritis. After throwing out all her medicine and eating only leche nuts for two months she returned to her career of teaching ballroom dancing. Her sister, she said, cured herself of cancer by drinking cucumber juice and sleeping in the backyard on an ant hill. Then there was a cousin who got rid of a goiter by wearing a necklace of pennies soaked in olive oil. I could go on but I think you get the idea.

I know this sounds crazy but my friend took an oath on the family Bible that it is all true. What do you make of it?—Can't Figure It

Dear Can't: Nearly every person you talk to can relate at least one story about a "cure" for which there is no medical explanation. I have no objection to anything that works, provided the sick person goes to a legitimate doctor first and steers clear of phonies. Over two billion dollars a year is spent on fake cures. Medical quackery is one of the most lucrative rackets going. My advice is this: If doctors can't help you, try the gimmicks—providing your doc says it can't hurt you. But don't put out any money.

Dear Ann Landers: No lectures, please. I've lectured myself enough. What I need now is some sound advice—and I don't trust my own judgment. I entered college at 16—a super-brainy whiz kid, but dumb as a dodo in the ways of the world. I did the four years in three, graduated in June—with honors. Sounds beautiful so far, doesn't it? Hold the phone, I am five and a half months pregnant. The man is married—age 24, a graduate student whose wife is putting him through. She's the quiet, mousey type with a double set

Mrs. Percy Tinker presented the past-president's report and she was given a standing ovation from the members for the terrific job she did during the past year.

The next executive meeting will be held Sept. 22 at the home of Mrs. Ernest Day. The next general meeting will be held at the Capri on Oct. 5 at 6:30 p.m.

Mrs. Nolan Peters was presented a Kinetite silver spoon by Mrs. Schmidt for her nine years service with Kelowna Kinetites.

Women Hear About The Work Of Other Groups

OKANAGAN MISSION—The September meeting of the Anglican Church Women of St. Andrew's Church, was held at the Rectory, Hobson Road, on Tuesday, Sept. 15, with 15 members present.

A report on the annual flower show held at the Eldorado Arms in June, shows it was most successful. The Thrift Shop, open in the parish hall each Friday from 2-2:30, is also profitable. It was pointed out most strongly by the convenors that clothes brought in for the Thrift Shop must be clean and in good condition. There is neither space nor need for rummage type of clothing.

It is planned that those interested in making flowers for the annual bazaar will call Mrs. Peter Fowler 764-4325 and arrangements can be made for a weekly meeting.

The annual bridge tournament will be starting soon, with 20 couples taking part through the winter.

Rev. Donald Kidd told the meeting of the history of women's groups in connection with the church across Canada. He urged as many members as possible to attend the all day meeting at St. Michael's in Kelowna on Sept. 26.

The next meeting of the Anglican Church Women will be held in the parish hall, Lakeshore Road on Tuesday, Oct. 20 at 7:30 p.m.

Engagement Announced

Mr. and Mrs. H. Spencer of Kelowna are pleased to announce the engagement of their youngest daughter, Shirley Mae, to Derek Broadhurst of Kelowna, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. Broadhurst of Toronto. The wedding date will be announced later.

How and of what are modern contact lenses made?

Today's lenses are usually made from plastic. They are cut on a lathe or moulded in special forms. They are ground and polished much more finely than optical glass. Unlike spectacles, the lightweight, transparent plastic lens is virtually shatterproof when in position on the eye.

DEEP BREATHING AFTER EIGHT ROUNDS

Breathing deeply and tugging at the waistband of his shorts, a perspiring Cassius Clay is visibly tired after eight rounds of exhibition boxing in Atlanta. Mets Show How To Gain — They Simply Don't Play

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
New York Mets have discovered the knack of gaining ground in the topsy-turvy National League east race. They simply don't play. The Mets, looking the day of Thursday and consequently couldn't lose. The same couldn't be said of first-place Chicago Cubs. The Pirates and Cubs foolishly showed up for their games and lost, allowing the Mets to gain ground on both of them.

Philadelphia Phillies knocked off Pittsburgh Pirates 3-2, cutting the Pirates' lead to 1 1/2 games over New York Mets. The Cubs bowed to St. Louis Cardinals 4-2 and remained two games behind.

Elsewhere in the National League Thursday, San Francisco Giants nipped San Diego Padres 4-3 and Houston Astros whipped Los Angeles Dodgers 10-5, eliminating the Dodgers and clinching the West Division race for idle Cincinnati Reds.

RECORD THE SAME
Over the last nine games, first-place Pittsburgh is 4-5—the same as second-place New York. Chicago has charged into contention with a 5-4 mark over the same period.

The Pirates fell victim to a suicide-squeeze bunt against the Phillies, spoiling the comeback of Dick Ellis, who made his first start in seven weeks.

Ellis was leading 2-1 when he was lifted after six innings of work. Don Money walked with one out against reliever John Lamb and then scooted home with the tying run on Ron Stone's triple.

Pinch hitter Terry Harmon followed with the squeeze bunt as Stone carried the winning run home.

The Pirates threatened in the eighth when Gene Clines opened with a double, his third hit of the game, and Jose Pagan followed with a single. But Clines was cut down at the plate on Scott Reid's throw to preserve the victory for the Phillies.

The Cubs, absorbed a 22-hit pounding at the hands of the Cardinals with Joe Torre, Lou Brock and Luis Melendez collecting four apiece.

Torre had a triple, two doubles and a single, completing the threegame series with 10 hits in 13 at bats. In 15 games against the Cubs this year, Torre is batting .554. Melendez had four straight singles and Brock two doubles and two singles.

The race resumes tonight with the Pirates in New York—a game one of the teams will probably win—and the Cubs in Montreal for a two-night doubleheader.

Champagne Flowed For Losers But Indians' Champ Had Beer
By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Champagne flowed in the losers' clubhouse at Washington, while Cleveland Indians' biggest winner treated himself to a short beer.

Baltimore Orioles celebrated their second successive American League east championship Thursday night, despite a 2-0 loss to the lowly Washington Senators, with a traditional bubbly bath. They had clinched the title when Boston Red Sox bent the second-place New York Yankees 5-4 in a 10-inning afternoon game.

At Cleveland, Sudden Sam McDowell subdued Detroit Tigers 6-2 to become a 20-game winner for the first time in seven major-league seasons. He took one quick sip of champagne to accommodate a photographer before switching to more pedestrian brew.

"I'd rather drink beer," said the six-foot-five southpaw, passing the champagne bottle. "I've been drinking beer all year long."

In other American League games, Minnesota Twins moved closer to the West Division title with a 4-3 victory over California Angels and Milwaukee Brewers nipped Kansas City Royals 4-3 in 13 innings.

YANKS ARE OUT
The Orioles were riding a bus from Baltimore to Washington when Tom Satriano's run-scoring single in the 10th inning at New York broke a 3-3 deadlock and mathematically eliminated the second-place Yankees.

"Next year, we're going to try and win it ourselves," said Frank Robinson, recalling that Baltimore also had clinched the division title in 1969 without taking the field.

Yachts' No-Day

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — It was a good day for sunning, splashing, chatting and even wondering what every one was doing back on shore.

But Thursday was no day for racing. So they called the second race of the 1970 America's Cup series off because the wind that was blowing in the morning died in the afternoon.

A large spectator fleet accompanied Intrepid, the New York Yacht Club defender, and Gretel II, her Australian challenger, out to the starting line under a cobalt blue sky and a brisk 14-knots north northeasterly wind. But it faded as the noon scheduled warning gun approached and then stopped almost dead in its tracks.

The NYC Race Committee waited until the 1:30 p.m. EST deadline and then raised the signals that there would be no race.

MEET MERRITT SATURDAY

Experienced Dons Ready For 1st OMFL Encounter

The Immaculate Dons open their 1970 Okanagan-Mainline Football schedule Saturday with much the same team that finished second last season and one which plans to complete the season higher in the standings this year.

The 1969 runners-up in the league's now defunct southern division have lost only four regulars from last season's squad, have added strength, speed and experience for their five-game OMFL schedule.

Saturday, the Dons will meet the northern champion Merritt Raiders, expected to be a much improved team themselves. In the teams' only encounter against each other last season, the Dons whipped the Raiders 34-12.

Big names lost from last year's squad will be quarterback Gary Welder, halfback Paul Richardson, defensive safety Ray Gleason, and lineman Ernie McNally. Ron Pyle, who missed most of last year's schedule due to a leg injury will also be missed this season.

THE DONS HOWEVER STILL have a wealth of experience in young players.

Due to the size of the school, it has been necessary in the past to activate players at an extremely young age, picking them up as soon as they enter high school. The dividends may pay off this season.

Immaculate's much improved quarterback, Mark Lang is only 15, but is in third year of high school football.

Coach Cliff Kiewer sees a fine year in store for the Dons' signal caller.

Points Championships Decided But Racing Resumes In Vernon

The Okanagan Track Racing Association points championships have been decided.

Although one more weekend of racing remains at Vernon's Tillicum Raceway, the top four places in both modified stock and B modified are not expected to change.

Bruce Georgeson, a snowmobile racing veteran, in his first season of stock cars, rules the modified stock class. Heading into this weekend the Jolly Green Giant has 339 points, and won't be caught by Vernon's Earl Stein, at 281, or Art Fiset of Lumby, with 237 and Vernon's rookie Don Wutzke, with 210.

Drew Kitch of Kelowna has wrapped up his third points title in four years. Kitch was early-late points champion and rookie of the year in 1967; B champion in 1968; second to Pete Smiri in B points last year and champ again this season, which could be his last on Okanagan tracks, if plans come off to go into A modifieds next season.

Kitch has 545 points, far ahead of Smiri at 409 and Ab Funk at 362. Doug McNaughton, in his second year of racing, gives Kelowna drivers a sweep of the first four B modified places, with 273 points.

The last Sunday of racing at Western North America's fastest three-eighths-mile track will be a big one. As many as five feature events are on tap, in addition to the regular card. Features include the annual powder puff, the annual women's race, a mechanics' event and features for regular drivers in both classes.

Time trials go at 1 p.m., with the first of more than a dozen races off the line at 1:30 p.m. Trophies and special awards will be presented at the annual OTRA banquet Oct. 17 in the Vernon recreation centre.

B.C. Lions Face Quarterbacks When Meeting Riders Tonight

By THE CANADIAN PRESS
Saskatchewan Roughriders, with three top running backs lether on the limp or out of action, plan to throw three quarterbacks against British Columbia Lions in Western Football Conference action tonight.

First-string signal caller Ron Lancaster, bothered all season by a sore throwing arm, will get assistance from Don Weiss, the former Winnipeg Blue Bomber, and from the newest Roughriders, 26-year-old veteran Gary Lane.

Lions, seeking a win that would edge them past Calgary Stampeders and give them sole possession of second place, will count on the passing of Paul Brothers and rushing of Jim Evenson and A. D. Whitfield.

In other WFC action, Edmonton Eskimos, four points behind the Lions and in fourth place, travel to Winnipeg for a battle Sunday with the cellar-dwelling Blue Bombers.

Fish And Game Membership Aimed At 1,000

The first meeting of the fall season of the Kelowna and District Fish and Game Club was held recently in the club rooms at Sportsmen's Field with 25 members attending.

The club, an affiliate of the B.C. Wildlife Association, is aiming for a membership of 1,000 this year. At present there are 400 paid up members.

The club is taking an active part on a steering committee to form a society to administer the Sutherland-Hills Class C Nature Park. This area was the former Kelowna rearing ponds.

Spokesman Earl Popham explained that membership in the club entitles the holder to a coverage of up to $100,000 liability and affords the privileges of the club, use of the indoor rifle range, trap shooting, large-bore rifle range, pistol shooting, archery and many other activities undertaken by the club.

Two of the many projects the club sponsors are fighting pollution and instructing a junior hunting training program.

Riders Lineup Keeps Changing

OTTAWA (CP) — With the Eastern Football Conference schedule at the half-way point, Coach Jack Gotta still is making changes in the lineup of Ottawa Rough Riders.

Tight end Freeman White, cut this week by New York Giants, and Canadian defensive back John Kruspe, let go by Riders earlier, will be in Ottawa uniforms Saturday for a game against Calgary Stampeders.

STUDIOS SUFFERING

This Hollywood Picture A Grim One

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The desperate condition of the film industry was underscored recently when labor and management joined to seek a 20-per-cent tax exemption on gross income for American-made movies.

The chances that Congress will respond favorably are slim. It's hard to convince congressmen that the once-booming movie business is at its lowest ebb in 50 years.

"Hollywood has always had the reputation of being a gold-rush town," says an industry observer. "How can you pay stars a million dollars a picture one year and then plead poverty the next?"

"The government has never lifted a finger to help the movie business in the past. There is no reason to believe it would start now. Especially with so many voters up in arms about dirty movies."

Still, the companies and the unions are hopeful. They see governmental assistance as the only way to extricate the industry from its economic ills.

RUNNING IN RED

The seriousness of those ills is demonstrated in the financial statements of the major companies, most of which are awash in red ink. Hollywood also has suffered chronic unemployment, with as much as 50 per cent of the labor force out of steady employment.

Strangely, the number of films being made in the United States during 1970 is far ahead of 1969. During the first half of this year, 78 movies were started, compared with 74 for all of 1969.

But figures can deceive. More than half of those pictures are being made by independent companies, not the major studios. While some are legitimate productions, a great many are "skin flicks" or shoestring ventures that employ no union members.

In an effort to gain employment for their members in such films, the craft and actor unions agreed to lower their contract terms for movies costing less than $1 million.

"That campaign has been a success," said a union spokesman. "In three or four months, 23 pictures with budgets of less than a million have been started with union casts and crews. At least 16 of those pictures would not otherwise have been made here under union jurisdiction."

FEWER TV FILMS

Increased production doesn't necessarily mean more work for the Hollywood labor force. Of the 28 movies being filmed domestically last week, 10 were working in the Hollywood studios. The rest were scattered across the country.

For the last 10 years, television filming has helped ease the economic pinch. But the trend has been toward fewer filmed series as feature movies and variety hours take over more network programming.

Fewer segments are being filmed, too. Several years ago, series made 39 a season; last year the number was 26 and now it's an average of 24. And NBC is shooting only 10 High Chaparrals this season, filling the rest of the time with specials and reruns.

Hunting Season Gets Slow Start

By JIM TREADGOLD

The opening of the hunting season in the Okanagan last weekend saw hundreds of local hunters in the hills, getting their first taste of hunting for the season, some good exercise and sore muscles. For the most part game was on the short side with a small take. A few buck deer were bagged, at least two moose in the Peachland area, and a few reported limits on blue grouse, but the average would run to two or three birds per hunter. Blue grouse appeared more plentiful than the willow.

Very few deer were found in the high alpine country, and the best reports on deer came from the four to five thousand foot altitude, well below the summits. This is possibly due to moisture after the hot, dry summer. A good percentage of the deer that were taken were "local" deer living in close to the farms and meadows. This happens every season, with some deer just liking habitation and cultivation, this is especially so with the whitetail.

MOOSE MEAT FOR THE Fish and Game Club banquet—well—almost. It seems that ardent fish and gamers Dr. George Johnson and Dr. Ken Geis, worked on their cabins at Headwaters all day Sunday, but took a run down a road nearby just before dusk. Not five minutes out and there stood a big bull moose. Dr. George jumped out of the jeep, slammed home, he thought, a magazine of shells in his trusty .303, closed the bolt, took careful aim and fired, just a resounding click as the firing pin dropped on an empty chamber, quickly working the bolt again, aim and fire and again click. The moose didn't care for those clicks and took off, to live at least another day. I expect the magazine clip was not quite all the way into place. The moral, keep calm and only a dentist looks down in the mouth.

ANOTHER CUTE HUNTING story is told by comical Reg Martin. The Gallant Ghost of the Mission Creek gang of lacrosse fame, Reg was hunting in the Little White Mountain area with his young son, who is just learning the game. A nice buck was spotted. Reg had lots of time as the buck was unaware of their presence. He laid down with gun over a log, after taking careful aim with the scope crosshairs right behind the shoulders, he fired, the buck just stayed there. Taking careful aim the second time he fired again. The buck, not liking that awful noise, walked, then bounced away as they will do, not in the least touched by humans, or bullets. After the second shot when the buck started to walk away the boy said: "Dad, you hit him in the same place." At that Reggie jumped up and started after the boy, not the deer. Meat on the table, almost. The moral here is next time let the boy shoot first.

DUCKS AND GESE open this Saturday, Sept. 19 one-half hour before sunrise. The abstract regulations as sent out by Ottawa on the geese give the date as Sept. 29 for opening. This is an error and should read Sept. 19, the same as ducks. The Dee Lake fishing derby in support of the swimming pool fund created a fair amount of interest last weekend. Trout to four pounds were caught in Hidden Lake. This would make a nice annual affair—especially if held on the Labor Day weekend.

Fishing activity has slowed down considerably, with few anglers out. One local party fished Woods Lake at Westwood for two days this week but found it very slow, taking only five fish, for three fishermen. If the weather stays moderate some good fishing days can be expected this month and in early October.

THERE IS QUITE A LARGE run of Kokanee in Mission Creek, which leaves me to believe that the eggs planted there four years ago by the Kokanee run that was killed off by poisons did hatch. There have been many instances reported of persons molesting the Kokanee in this run, and a number have been charged with the offence. These fish are protected on their spawning run and must not be taken or molested. Several deputies are keeping an eye on the creek.

It's been a safe hunting season to date, let's keep it that way by being careful in all ways, how you handle your gun and be certain of what you are shooting at. The Kelowna and District Search and Rescue groups, bush section, are ready for any lost hunters. We are fortunate to have such a ready and keen group in our area. If needed just call 762-5555.

LACROSSE CONTEST

Lakers' Chances Of Winning Appear Anything But Bright

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C. (CP) — Peterborough Lakers' chances of winning the Canadian senior lacrosse championship appear anything but encouraging, but coach Bobby Allan still feels his club can go all the way.

"We're not out of it yet and we're a better ball club than we showed tonight," Allan said after the Lakers were humiliated 18-8 by New Westminster Salmonbellies Thursday night before 3,800 fans.

The western champion Bellies lead the best-of-seven Mann Cup final, 2-0, with the third game scheduled Saturday and the fourth Monday. If necessary, other games will be played here Sept. 22, 24 and 26.

After trailing 6-4 against the same club which defeated them in last year's final, Salmonbellies scored 12 goals without reply Thursday to run away from the eastern champions.

"I don't want to say too much about the game—I was embarrassed," Allan said after a closed-door meeting with his players.

The Peterborough coach said

Clay Fights N.Y. State

NEW YORK (AP) — It's Cassius Clay's move as far as fighting in New York is concerned. The New York State Athletic Commission said Thursday it would consider Clay's application for a licence in the state whenever he applies.

Clay, also known as Muhammad Ali, was stripped of his heavyweight championship by the New York commission and other boxing governing bodies when he was convicted June 20, 1967 of refusing to accept military service, and the New York commission turned down Clay's request for a licence last Oct. 14.

But a federal judge ruled last Tuesday that the commission's ban had been "arbitrary and unreasonable" and a departure from the commission's "established practice of granting licences to applicants convicted of crimes and military offences."

The commission said Thursday in a statement: "In light of Judge Walter R. Mansfield's decision rendered Sept. 14, 1970, in the matter of Muhammad Ali, the New York State Athletic Commission has decided to consider his application for a boxer's licence when he files. The commission also decided not to appeal the decision."

Pre-Season NHL Games Short On A Few Stars

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Some of the stars were missing and some names were barely recognizable as the National Hockey League opened its pre-season schedule Thursday night.

Four teams—including a newcomer to the league—started the round of exhibition contests, with games at Peterborough, Ont. and Ottawa. The schedule starts Oct. 10.

New York Rangers, minus four of their top players, had to rally with four third-period goals to tie Buffalo Sabres 4-4 at Peterborough as the Sabres played their first NHL game.

And at Ottawa, Toronto Maple Leafs scored twice while short-handed to tie St. Louis Blues 4-4.

The Rangers were without all-star defenceman Brad Park, centres Walt Tkaczuk and Jean Ratelle and left winger Vic Hadfield. They were suspended for refusing to play without a new contract.

GILBERT SCORES

In the game, Rod Gilbert scored with 28 seconds left, after Francis pulled goalie Gilles Villeneuve, to give Rangers the tie. Bob Nevin, Mike Robitaille and Don Luce also scored for the Rangers.

Buffalo's goals were scored by Bill Inglis and Reg Fleming with one each and J. G. Lagace, with two. Lagace, a hard-hitting defenceman, beat netminders Ed Giacomin and Villeneuve with hard-rising shots.

Rangers outshot Buffalo 48-31 but were stymied in the first two periods by the acrobatics of goalie Dave Dryden.

Inlath, who termed the debut of his injury in the game when defenceman Rick Ley was taken to hospital with a rib injury. He later returned to Toronto with the team.

The Leafs, stressing youth in their rebuilding program, got goals from rookies Bob Liddington and Rene Robert and also from Jim Harrison and Paul Henderson.

Missing from their lineup were regulars Dave Keon, who is unsigned, and Norm Ullman, Brit Selby and Norm Ellis, out with injuries.

The Leafs also picked up another injury in the game when defenceman Rick Ley was taken to hospital with a rib injury. He later returned to Toronto with the team.

SCORES TWO

The Blues got standout performances from some of their rookies, including George Morrison, who scored two goals.

Noel Picard and Larry Keenan also scored for St. Louis.

Bruce Gamble and Jacques Plante—Plante played for St. Louis last season—each played half the game for Toronto. Ernie Wakely and Ted Quimet shared the goal duties for the Blues.

The exhibition schedule continues tonight with four games. Chicago Black Hawks meet Boston Bruins at London, Ont., St. Louis plays New York at Kitchener, Ont., Buffalo meets Oakland Seal at Oshawa, Ont. and Minnesota North Stars and Vancouver Canucks, the other newcomers to the NHL, play at Edmonton.

The Boston-Chicago game will be a test for Bruin defenceman Ted Green, who was out of the lineup all last season because of head injuries suffered in an exhibition game with St. Louis.

Injuries are continuing to plague other NHL teams. St. Louis lost Tim Eccles on Thursday when he suffered a hairline ankle fracture during a practice session.

The North Stars will be without goalie Gump Worsley and defenceman Lou Nanne in their game tonight. Worsley stopped a shot with his big toe while Nanne is suffering from a sore groin.

Oakland, training at Oshawa, will be without defenceman Bert Marshall for about two months. He is wearing a cast on his left wrist, the result of a bone-fusion operation during the off season.

Even Computer Had Trouble With Complicated Schedule

MONTREAL (CP)

This season's enlarged National Hockey League schedule released today is so complex that it was too much for a computer to handle.

"I would be happy if a computer could be used for the schedule," Brian O'Neill, the NHL's director of administration, said shortly after the NHL board of governors approved the 546-game schedule.

"A computer would save many hours of work if it could produce the schedule within a reasonable amount of time," O'Neill said.

"However, we tried to computerize the schedules for the two previous seasons but in each instance, only 40 per cent of the games originally scheduled were unchanged when the final drafts were accepted."

"With the addition of Vancouver Canucks and Buffalo Sabres to the NHL this season, a further 90 games over the last two seasons are required. If a computer couldn't help us that much in the 456-game schedules, I couldn't see it being of much value this time."

The 25-week schedule, which actually has 26 weekends of games, opens Friday, Oct. 9, with Los Angeles Kings visiting Vancouver. The schedule closes Sunday, April 4, with six games.

There is an average of 21 games a week, with each team playing 39 games at home and 39 on the road during the season. Last year each of the 12 teams played 38 home and 38 away games.

O'Neill said there are two major reasons for the computer's problems with the schedule. One was the number of backlogs caused by other events at the rinks and the other was the difficulty of trying to get three games for teams making a trip to the West Coast.

"We had more than 50 weeks blocked out by the 14 teams in 1970-71," O'Neill said. "We found it impossible to have each club visit Vancouver, Los Angeles and Oakland in one trip. As a result, there are several instances in the schedule for this season where a team makes a one-game trip to the West Coast."

He said a computer would probably be able to draw up a schedule if time permitted but explained that too much time was lost in re-programming each draft.

This Complicated Matters . .

The 1970-71 schedule was started last February and took six months to complete. Each of the 14 clubs plays the other 13 six times—three times at home and three on the road.

"Last season when the teams played four games at home against each of the other teams in their division and three against each team in the other division, it was easier to distribute the games more evenly," said O'Neill. "The completely balanced schedule for this season complicated matters."

O'Neill's statements appeared in an NHL news release.

Besides the increased number of games in the schedule, another major change is the realignment of two divisions. Chicago Black Hawks move to the West Division while Vancouver and Buffalo will be in the East.

There are games every night of the week, Saturday being the biggest night with 145 games. Next is Sunday with 137 games, followed by Wednesday with 112, Thursday, 71, Tuesday, 42, Friday, 37, and Monday, two.

BOSTON GETS ALL STARS

The 24th annual all-star game is scheduled for Boston Tuesday, Jan. 19.

St. Louis Blues are the only team to have at least one game each night of the week. The defending West Division champions play at home 16 Saturdays, nine Tuesdays, five Wednesdays, four Thursdays, three Fridays, one Monday and one Sunday.

In addition to Vancouver's opening game Oct. 9 against the Kings, other home openers are: St. Louis—Oct. 10 against New York Rangers; Detroit Red Wings—Oct. 10—Oakland Seals; Pittsburgh Penguins—Oct. 10—Buffalo; Philadelphia Flyers—Oct. 10—Minnesota North Stars; Boston Bruins—Oct. 11—Detroit; Chicago—Oct. 11—Oakland; Montreal Canadiens—Oct. 13—Detroit; Toronto Maple Leafs—Oct. 14—St. Louis; New York—Oct. 14—Buffalo; Los Angeles—Oct. 14—Boston; Buffalo—Oct. 15—Montreal; Minnesota—Oct. 15—Pittsburgh; Oakland—Oct. 16—Boston.

Surprise Report From McGill

TORONTO (CP) — Athletic officials at Canadian universities say they are surprised at a report from Montreal that McGill University is considering withdrawing from intercollegiate sports competitions.

The McGill committee on budget cuts has proposed that intercollegiate sports be suspended in 1971-72 to save about $200,000. Intramural sports would be retained. It would end a 72-year-old intercollegiate football affiliation at the end of the current season.

Tom Mooney, head football coach of the defending Canadian champions, said it costs $90,000 to operate the Redmen. He is asking McGill alumni for financial help.

"This is the first case of its kind that I can recall," Dr. Maury van Vleet of the University of Alberta Edmonton campus said Thursday.

LEO WAS RIGHT IT'S A LONG WAY

CHICAGO (AP) — "It's still a long way from over," said manager Leo Durocher as he led his faltering Chicago Cubs into a two-night doubleheader at Montreal today to start an unenviable gauntlet of 14 games on the road.

"I can't ever remember a major league club closing out the season with that many games on the road—and it sure is important when you're in a pennant scrap," said Durocher.

The Cubs got less than a cheering sendoff Wednesday when their regular season Wrigley Field finale wound up in a 9-2 pasting by St. Louis Cardinals under their campaign's biggest barrage of 22 hits.

That left the Cubs with a 46-34 record at home against 31-37 on the road, where they now meet the Cardinals again after four Montreal weekend games, the Phils and then play four seemingly critical windup games against New York Mets.

One in every five Ontario farm employers will report an accident to the Workman's Compensation Board this year, if past experience continues.

Expos Should Win 70 . . .

MONTREAL (CP) — It was manager Gene Mauch's estimation last winter that the 1970 edition of Montreal Expos would be vastly superior to that of 1969.

The Expos won only 52 games in their initial season in baseball's National League, but Mauch felt that his club should win "at least 70 games in 1970."

Going into tonight's four-game series against Chicago Cubs, the Expos are only four games short of that objective.

The Cubs, meanwhile, are in the fight for the East Division pennant and occupy third place, two games behind Pittsburgh Pirates.

The 1970 season didn't exactly start with a bang for the Expos. The club lost 10 of its first 11 games, straightened itself out momentarily, then plunged into an 11-game streak and by June 4 had a 16-33 won-lost record.

The Expos snapped the losing streak June 5 in Atlanta and went on to sweep a three-game series from the Braves. Going into today's action the Expos are 50-49 since June 5, the sixth-best mark during that period in the National League.

The Expos have 14 games to reach Mauch's objective and still have a mathematical shot at the pennant.

Montreal and Philadelphia Phillies are currently battling for the No. 5 spot in the six-team division. Philadelphia has won 67 and lost 53 while the Expos are 66-52 going into weekend play.

When Mauch first mentioned the goal of 70 victories, he figured that a four-man pitching rotation of Joe Spurna, Jim Britton, Bill Stoneman and Steve Renko could possibly win as many games as the club won all last year.

Stoneman ran into some control problems and sports an unimpressive 5-14 ledger with a 4.85 ERA. Spurna ran up a string of four losses from the start of the season before he was shipped to Winnipeg Whips, the Expos International League farm club.

A new chapter in your life is beginning

The time is opportune to closely review the steps you should follow to ensure a suitable measure of material and esthetic success together. Of course you want to get ahead, but how?

Face it: Gradual inflation is a way of life in our society. All of us are plagued by the shrinking value of the dollar in the face of steadily increasing costs. How long will your income continue to advance? How can you best employ your dollars to keep pace?

Investment Counsellors are bound to agree that one of the best investments young couples can make is that of buying property and building a home. Mortgage Interest Rates are comparatively low when one considers that repayment is made in devalued dollars. Doesn't this make sense? Why not let Okanagan Builders Land Development Ltd. help you take the first step . . . we have a large selection of desirable residential building lots available.

'U.S. Farm Price Support Plan' Prevents Profitable Changes

TORONTO (CP)—The United States government's farm price support program is standing in the way of changes that would make farming in the U.S. profitable, the head of the American Farm Bureau Federation said Tuesday.

Charles Shuman of Sullivan, Ill., said that as long as U.S. farmers have government assistance it will be difficult to negotiate lifting of the restrictions on international trade in farm commodities.

He told delegates of the Chicago-based Farm and Industrial Equipment Institute and its Toronto-based affiliate, the Canadian Farm and Industrial Equipment Institute that attempts by the U.S. government to manage production cannot match the efficiency of the market place.

The 1.8-billion-member farm bureau wants government subsidies, which amount to between $1,000 million and $1,500 million annually in recent years, phased out over a five-year period.

The farm bureau president said the role of government in agriculture should be limited to financing research and promoting a favorable economic and political climate.

PREDICTS NEW LAW
 G. K. Wade of Greenwood, Miss., president of the U.S.-based National Farm Power Equipment Dealers Association, predicted that new laws on franchising will likely be applied soon to the relationship between farm dealers and their suppliers.

"Most manufacturers make no pretense of trying to conceal their plans to reduce the number of dealers whose franchises they renew," he said.

Another practice that hurt the whole system, Mr. Wade said, is that of companies underbidding their own dealers on state and institutional contracts.

Franchise companies can, by their actions, make necessary legislation less necessary, he said.

William C. Padlock, a U.S. consultant on the development of agriculture in tropical countries, said that much of the wheat yield increases in India and the Philippines credited to miracle strains of wheat and rice developed under grants from the Ford and Rockefeller foundations were really caused mostly by good weather.

Broken Nose Should Be Set

By George C. Thosteson, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What is the possible outcome if a broken nose is not set? How serious is it? Is blindness likely?—R.R.

A broken nose doesn't cause blindness. There are two principal consequences if a nose is not set. One is deformity that is visible. This may be a crooked nose, a depression called a saddle nose, or some general flattening.

The other common consequence is deformity inside the nose. The septum, or partition between the nostrils, consists of cartilage. It can be torn loose from its bony attachment, or it can become seriously deformed, or bent, with the airway (one side or both) becoming obstructed, interfering with breathing.

This in turn can cause subsequent troubles: recurrent infection, postnasal drainage or "drip," voice changes, nosebleeds. When such serious damage occurs to the septum, there usually is a lot of bleeding at the time of the fracture.

If a fracture is not corrected immediately, it should be checked within a few very few days, after the bleeding has stopped, to have the nose set. If there is too much delay, then surgical procedures may be necessary later on.

Maybe I should put it this way: If your nose is broken, or you think it may be, have it checked promptly, to have it set or to determine definitely whether it needs setting.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What should be the diet of a cardiac patient?—Mrs. C.W.

Diet for a heart patient isn't complicated as a rule—just a few points to keep in mind, and they will vary according to the individual, so let your doctor guide you on that.

Mainly: Salt may be severely restricted if the patient has much swelling from edema (fluid accumulating in tissues).

*Reduction in calories may be necessary if the patient is overweight, but not otherwise.

*In coronary cases—if the patient has had a coronary occlusion or "heart attack"—cholesterol and excessive fats may need to be limited.

*Small but more frequent meals can make some heart patients more comfortable. But if the usual three meals a day do not cause discomfort, there's no point in changing. Big meals may provoke anginal pain or other distress.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My daughter loves to ride horses and does so once or twice a week. A friend of mine had to discontinue riding because her doctor said it damaged her ovaries. My daughter says it's possible if you ride Western, because you bounce, but if you ride English you don't bounce so it can't hurt you. Is this true?—Mrs. R.M.

Not true. Whether you use an English or Western saddle, the ovaries are so well protected that they cannot be damaged by the bounce. (It is possible, of course, that your friend had some additional trouble that she didn't tell you about.)

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Have you any booklet relating to pyorrhea? I have a tooth that is loose and have been told the cause might be pyorrhea.—Mrs. L.M.

No booklet. Pyorrhea is a serious matter and causes the loss of a lot of otherwise sound teeth, but that's for a dentist to treat, not a physician. Better see yours.

Note to A.R.: Isoniazid is used in treatment of active tuberculosis, but it is also used as a precautionary measure. Old cases of tuberculosis, which may have been inactive for years, sometimes become active again later in life. Therefore, isoniazid quite often is given to such a person, for a year or so, as insurance that his old TB will not flare up when he gets older and his health is not as robust.

Note to D.A.D.: Sorry, but no, it is not yet possible to transplant an entire eye.

1. The first problem is whether to tackle clubs or diamonds, but it is not really difficult to appreciate the futility of trying to establish the clubs. Thus, if you led a club at trick two, a spade would come back, and when you then led another club, the defenders would cash their spades to automatically put you down one (possibly two).

Once you've decided to lead diamonds first, the next problem is to decide which way to tackle the suit. Strangely enough, the proper approach is not to lead hearts first but to lead a low diamond from your hand at trick two. You do this because you must find South with the K-x or K-x-x of diamonds to make the hand, and you therefore plan the play with this in mind.

You win the spade return at trick three, cash the A-K-Q of hearts, then take a diamond finesse. If all goes well, you are home.

2. It is impossible to go down unless you lose a spade trick (because South has the king) and a trump trick (because one opponent has all three missing trumps). The program is to make the slam even though both these conditions exist.

Ruff the diamond and lead the three of hearts to the king. If both defenders follow suit, your troubles are over. At worst, you lose a spade trick. Now let's assume one defender shows out on the first trump lead. If it's South, that's no problem, since North's queen is trapped. If North shows out, you will lose a trump trick, all right, but you will still make the contract by cashing the king of diamonds and ace of hearts before playing four rounds of clubs. If South ruffs at any point, he will be forced to make a suicidal return, while if he does not ruff, you throw him into the lead with a trump to accomplish the same result.

Note that if you make the mistake of leading the heart ace at trick two, the contract fails if South has the king of spades and nary a heart.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

Mar. 21 to Apr. 20 (Aries)—Put all the enthusiasm you can muster into activities. Fine chances for advancement indicated now.

Apr. 21 to May 21 (Taurus)—Stellar influences somewhat adverse toward finances. Watch the budget and don't yield to extravagant whims.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini)—A good day for hurdlings obstacles which may have stymied you in the past; for skirting impasses generally.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)—You have instinctive know-how in many areas, but may tend to get off the track now, unwisely go off on tangents. Care!

July 24 to Aug. 23 (Leo)—Unexpected good news could be the forerunner of new advantages in the future.

Aug. 24 to Sept. 23 (Virgo)—Scattering energies and overtaxing yourself could be detrimental to your interests. Emphasize serenity.

Sept. 24 to Oct. 23 (Libra)—Some complex situations indicated, but your stability and willingness to persevere against odds will see you through.

Oct. 24 to Nov. 22 (Scorpio)—Better-than-usual opportunities indicated, but some may require special handling, better-than-ordinary understanding. Use good judgment.

Nov. 23 to Dec. 21 (Sagittarius)—A good day for conducting business negotiations, successfully concluding financial transactions. Your innate organizational abilities stimulated.

Dec. 22 to Jan. 20 (Capricorn)—Don't get in the wrong groove through carelessness and don't let frivolity interfere with "mystic"—a tendency now.

Jan. 21 to Feb. 19 (Aquarius)—A fine day for travel—and adventure along the way. If not "on the road," you will be soon.

Feb. 20 to Mar. 20 (Pisces)—New trends must be carefully evaluated if you are to avoid possible slipups. Check out-moded ideas, methods.

Astro-pects—Personal relationships are under something of a cloud today. During business hours, do nothing to antagonize superiors or incur the enmity of co-workers and, in leisure time, be careful in dealing with new acquaintances. Persons born under some signs will be highly unconventional, even deceptive, and association with them will do you no good.

MUSICALLY SPEAKING

Kelowna Will Get Three Concerts

By BETHEL STEELE

Glory be. . . . Community Concerts made it. Just though, since there will be three concerts, this year, rather than the usual four. But the Little Angels . . . National Folk Ballet of Korea partly will make up for that nonexistent fourth concert. There are 35 dancers, their ages 13 to 15. There are eight native musicians who play 50 different native instruments and there are 300 costumes. From the standpoint of music, alone, the relevance of the musical instruments and the music itself to today's musical trends in western culture is more important than perhaps any of us might realize.

Music lovers in the community have Mrs. Marjorie Denroche to thank for pulling it all out of the hat after a faltering spring committee was unable to organize itself to cover Kelowna and district to the saturation point.

In respect to a Community Concerts campaign Kelowna has a parking problem downtown except for the library which could be used as a supplementary drop in place. The main headquarters should be some place where there is unlimited parking and room for the complete headquarters working staff which usually amounts to many more than the one only which anyone going to headquarters this fall will remember as all there was room for.

For some reason the spring plans were formulated on the premise that people will search out any place in which to part with their membership fee. This is, sadly enough, far from the psychology of selling. People must be contacted first by phone then personally. Then, too, there is the well-proven campaign practice that all renewals should be signed in at least a month before the actual campaign date.

Then all that should be left to do during the final week is the acquiring of new members and the later inclusion of new arrivals to the district. And for a community the size of Kelowna and environs no less than 75 workers should be in the field. With a few changes in respect to the towns themselves . . . this is the way Vernon and Penticton do it and they sell out. Surely Kelowna can do the same with a larger population than either of our neighbors.

The date for the Korean National Folk Ballet . . . Little Angels is Oct. 17. An annual meeting will be held shortly after that date to which everyone in the community interested in professional musical entertainment is invited. Also . . . a working plan for next spring is now being formulated.

At the moment I am reading George Marek's biography of Beethoven. (I hope to review it at a later date.) For the moment it is interesting to note that one of Beethoven's favorites was The Merchant of Venice. His copy of it was heavily underscored, particularly Lorenzo's famous music speech in the last act.

My Beethoven reading is timely since the "Merchant" was one of the plays I saw at Stratford. And the play is one of my favorites. Stratford's reading of it was powerful, straightforward and played without prejudice . . . as the artistic director . . . Jean Gascon stated as his ideal of it.

One had no sense of anything anti-Semitic as the hue and cry down the ages, today in particular, states as the theme of the play. Again as Gascon says . . . "It is enough to let the drama unfold before the audience. In the final analysis it is they who will decide and make their own judgments."

As Godard in his "Meaning of Shakespeare" points out . . . the interplay of all the characters' lives makes an enthralling drama. Shylock made his money by usury, Antonio by his trade . . . (I am thankful I saw Leo Ciceri play Antonio before he was killed) Portia by inheritance. Bassanio by borrowing and by marriage, Jessica by theft and later by judicial decree.

The story propounds questions that have a strangely contemporary ring. The various ways of acquiring property are not as unlike as they seem. How many of us live in the same golden world.

Any attempt to banish the play from the schools and from the contemporary stage is preposterous. It is the same kind of thinking that caused the banishment of German music . . . Beethoven's in particular during the First World War and after a revulsion toward the music of Wagner because of his revolutionary ideals or morals.

Shakespeare planned the Merchant to enforce the irony of Portia's failure to be true to her inner self. He employs symbols in a double sense . . . one worldly and one spiritual. The Merchant . . . "is a casket in which his author put the muddy vesture of decay, that is the gilt and glitter on the outside where no one can miss it and left the heavenly harmonies for those to hear who can. This is divine deception."

It is much the same as the remark after the Stratford performance when in complete satisfaction I stated . . . "This was Shakespeare" . . . and the answer I stated . . . "What do you mean, isn't that what we came for?"

It was all there crystal clear as some unadulterated piece of music . . . with Donald Davis' Shylock a masterpiece of understatement.

Bug That Wiped Out Cherries Discovered In The Okanagan

SUMMERLAND — Leafhopper insects, carriers of the "little cherry" virus that wiped out the existing cherry plantings in the Kootenay cherry growing area between 1933-1950 have been found and identified in the Okanagan by Department of Agriculture officials.

Dr. A. J. Hansen, plant pathologist for the Canada Dept. of Agriculture Research Station believes, however, that the disease is "under control."

He said a special research committee supported by the B.C. and Canada departments of agriculture and the British Columbia Fruit Growers Association found five diseased cherry trees, four in Penticton area and one in Peachland this year.

Affected trees cannot be cured by spraying or any other treatment and eradication of such trees is the only known method of preventing further spread in the orchard and surrounding area, he said.

Small, pointed fruit typify the disease and are one-half to two-thirds the normal size, dull red, usually with three flat sides tapering toward the blossom end.

However, small cherry conditions may also occur as a result of zinc deficiency and winter injury.

In 1969 when a small cherry condition was found in the Okanagan area, indistinguishable from little cherry virus disease, the provincial department of agriculture found 20 definitely diseased trees and 15 suspected; all affected trees were destroyed.

"We think we have found most of the infected trees," said Dr. Hansen, "however three out of seven Japanese cherry trees sold in this area during their ban 10 years ago, are still missing."

The source of the virus was traced to imported Japanese flowering cherries, on which leafhoppers spread rapidly through the Kootenay-Arrow Lake region over distances as great as 30 miles.

Fruit symptoms are most pronounced in the Lambert and Bing varieties.

MUSEUM NOTES

Indians' Artifacts Fascinating Study

By URSULA SURTEES

Every museum in Canada is made up of collections.

Quite often a large part of the collections are the artifacts left behind by our native peoples. The arrow-heads, scrapers, adzes and drills, all made of bone or stone, are carefully studied and displayed.

Besides the collections in public institutions, there are many private collections, that are the pride and joy of amateur artifact hunters. So numerous are these collections that one begins to think there must be an end to the supply some time or another, but that's before one digs into the facts.

Our country has been inhabited by the Indian peoples for thousands of years, and in all those thousands of years these long lasting tools and weapons have been made and discarded. The very nature of the material used ensured that they would endure. In B.C. in particular the Indian population was always high. No other region of Canada was as densely populated. Of the 1,000,000 native people who lived north of Mexico, about 30 per cent lived along the Pacific Coast. After exposure to the white man's sicknesses, against which they had little defence, the population dropped steadily. In 1885 the population of the Interior Salish, which is the tribe of our own area, was 13,500; by 1890 it had dropped to 5,348.

Collecting in earnest of the remains of our Indian culture did not start until the turn of the century. Indeed, 25 years ago, good authentic masks were still to be had for under $100. Today, these same masks are valued in thousands.

The natives had an eye for beauty and symmetry which is evident in the display we have currently at the museum. This exhibit features some of the most exquisite workmanship to be seen anywhere. The most striking are what are known as "gem points." These are small arrowheads, some only half an inch in length, and beautiful is the only word to describe them. There are translucent agate ones, made very slender and tapering. Some are of petrified wood, or various colors of jasper. One of pale pink and white agate is notched along each edge making a wicked sawtooth effect which would penetrate anything with no trouble at all.

Some of the ceremonial and burial pieces are obviously not intended for everyday use, especially the spearpoint about six and one-half inches long of a grey-green stone. The adze, made of green jade or nephrite, is smooth and polished, and took many months, even years in the making. These had to be cut by the abrasive method of sand and thonging method, then rubbed and rubbed with abrasive until the desired shape was achieved.

Also included in this display is evidence of the effect on the culture by the advent of the white man. Trade beads of blue, red and amber glass begin to appear interspersed in the shell necklaces. Brass buttons, especially made for trade purposes are taking their place along with claws and teeth as pendants. Trade guns and pelts help to complete this display, which has been loaned to us by Monty DeMara, and will be on exhibit until Oct. 10.

MESSAGE TO UBCM

Growing Labor Demands B.C.'s 'Thorniest Issue'

PENTICTON — Increasing labor demands is one of the thorniest issues facing local government today, the Union of British Columbia Municipalities 67th annual conference has been told.

The major influence behind this problem is continuing inflation. T. R. B. Adams, UBCM's executive director, told the conference in his annual report.

While there are many complex factors to the inflation problem, he said, one has been the extent to which wage increases have exceeded the growth of productivity.

"This disparity has been particularly marked in the service industries where output per employee actually dropped by one per cent in 1969 while average earnings rose by 7.9 per cent," he said.

Adams noted that the disparity between productivity and labor costs is continuing in spite of federal government fiscal and monetary policies and activities of the prices and incomes commission.

"Despite these efforts," he said, "there is but slight indication that prices are indeed slowing their rates of increase."

"There is, however, a distinct slowdown in economic activities and this is reflected in higher unemployment rates, which stood at 6.2 per cent of the labor force in May this year for all Canada, and 8.5 per cent for B.C.," he said.

While prices rose 2.3 per cent per year during 1961-65, and wage increases accounted for less than half of that figure, the corresponding figures for the period 1965-69 were 4.0 per cent and 77.5 per cent.

Union wage demands and militancy have drastically changed this picture in the last two years, Mr. Adams said. "Of 51 municipal agreements negotiated in B.C. to date this year, wage increases averaged 8.3 per cent compared with 7.4 per cent for 76 agreements reached in 1969," he said.

In spite of these factors, he noted, 30 agreements have been settled with mediation officers appointed and one with mediation.

The convention approved a Prince Rupert resolution asking that the federal government grant municipalities complete exemption from federal sales tax.

The convention was told that the Municipal Finance Authority, set up this year to borrow money for municipalities, has decided to borrow up to $21 million this fall in its first approach to the money market.

Mayor Hugh Curtis of Salmon, outgiving UBCM president, said the borrowing follows loan authorization bylaws for sewer, water and pollution control projects which were adopted before March 31.

tion officer and strike. At Sept. 1 there were 21 municipal negotiations still to be settled.

He reported that the trend to area-wide bargaining by municipalities is increasing.

During the year, UBCM executive assistant Jeff McKelvey visited 24 municipalities and met with two regional districts in keeping with UBCM's policy of assisting members on labor relations matters.

SOME SUCCESSES

Reporting on UBCM's batting average for steering members' requests for new and amended legislation through the provincial government, Mr. Adams listed some successes, several stalemates, and a few direct refusals.

Following the annual conference, the UBCM executive presents some endorsed resolutions to the provincial cabinet each year. Others are pursued through the ministers and pertinent government departments.

Among the major-gains, he said, "enactment of the Litter

Act and amendments to the Sewage Treatment Plant Assistance Act reflected UBCM resolutions."

UBCM's presentation regarding accommodation grievances was largely answered by amendments to the Landlord and Tenant Act, and this year's amendments to the Municipal Act and related acts reflected UBCM resolutions in many respects.

Notable failures to date include UBCM's request for restoration of the 10 per cent municipal share of welfare costs in place of the present 20 per cent imposed in 1967; the request for tax relief for needy elderly homeowners; the request for a better deal on administration of justice costs; and the request for more realistic grants in lieu of municipal taxes on provincial property. All of these requests are being pursued, Mr. Adams said.
